Now I KNOW my market...

because I know "MY BANK"

HERE'S a man who knows the importance of having complete, up-to-date data before deciding to break into new trade territory. And, like so many successful overseas traders over the past 130 years, when he wants market information he comes to the Bank of Montreal.

That's because the B of M offers him — as it offers you—the services and counsel of a global network of first-class banking connections.

At the B of M you get quick, accurate, up-to-the-minute reports on market conditions . . . local contacts you can rely on . . . expert, on-the-spot handling of your banking needs . . . all provided for you by established banks of the countries concerned.

Whether you want to export or import . . . you can save time and money and be in closer touch with your potential market by talking over your plans with Canada's first bank. Address your enquiries to your nearest B of M branch or to the Business Development Department, Bank of Montreal, Head Office, Montreal, Canada.

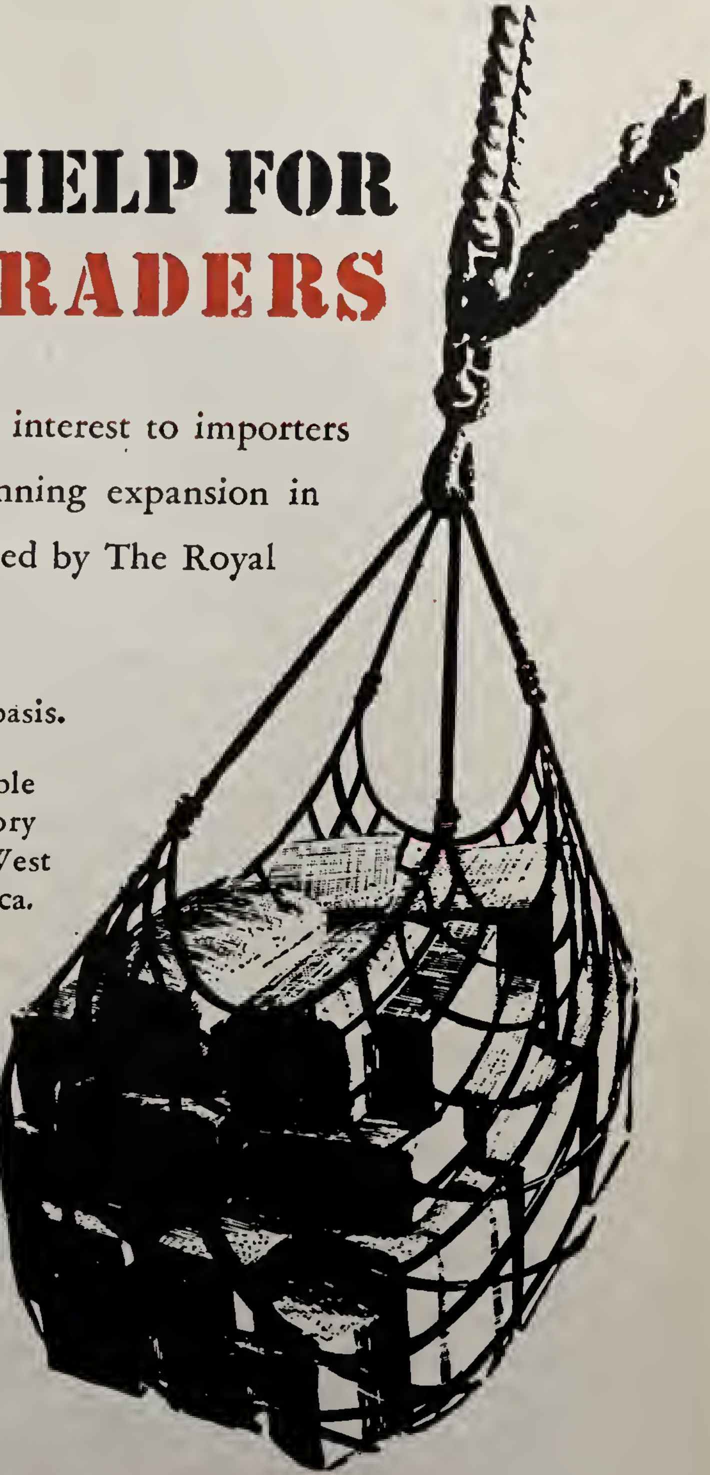
PRACTICAL HELP FOR FOREIGN TRADERS



Specialized services, of particular interest to importers and exporters and to those planning expansion in Canada or the Americas are offered by The Royal Bank of Canada. These include:

1 Credit Reports on a world-wide basis.

2 Assistance in establishing desirable trade connections and locating factory sites, particularly in Canada, the West Indies, Central and South America.

3 Full co-operation in making "on the spot" market studies.

4 Complete facilities for the financing of imports and exports, the transmission of funds and the collection of accounts anywhere in the civilized world.

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

HEAD OFFICE MONTREAL

ASSETS EXCEED $2,497,000,000

Over 750 branches in Canada, Cuba, Haiti, Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, British West Indies, Central and South America. Offices in New York, London, Paris. Correspondents the world over.

Introduction

THE primary object of the publishers of the CANADIAN TRADE INDEX is to provide buyers and sellers of Canada and ninety other countries with an authoritative directory of all products manufactured in Canada and the names of the firms making them. It includes a complete list of Canadian manufacturers having more than a local distribution for their products, irrespective of membership in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Approximately ten thousand firms are listed.

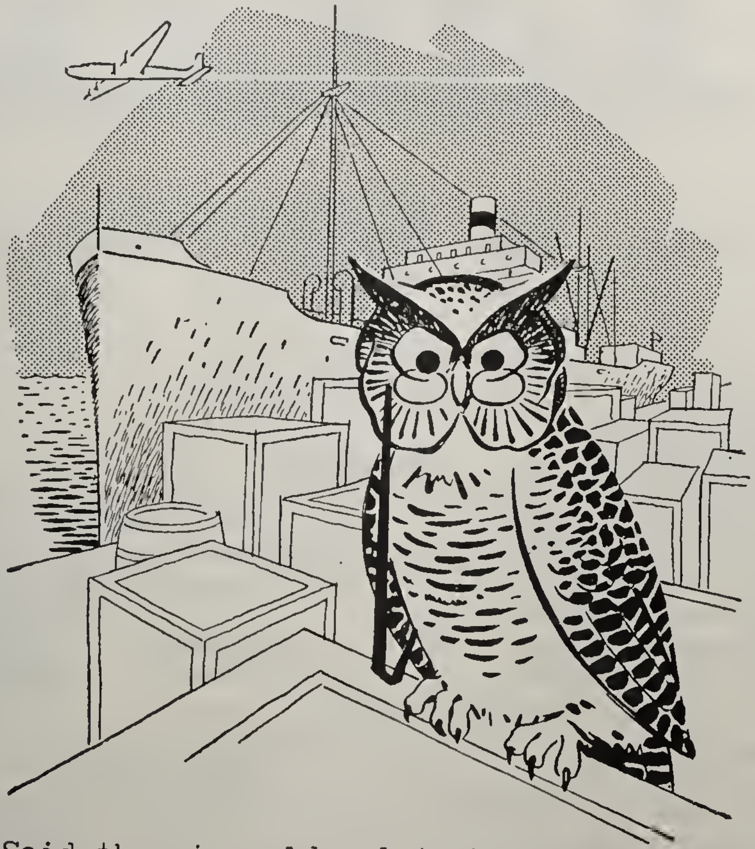
This edition of the Index includes the following features: an alphabetical directory of approximately ten thousand Canadian manufacturers with addresses, branches, export representatives, trade marks and brands; a directory of Canadian manufacturers classified according to the products made; a directory of exporters of agricultural produce and allied lines; an export section giving details of Government services and other export information, with a Foreword by The Rt. Honourable C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa; an alphabetical list in French of the headings in the classified section with parallel English; an alphabetical list in Spanish (limited edition) of headings in the classified section with parallel English; an alphabetical list in Portuguese (limited edition) of headings in the classified section with parallel English.

Owing to the detailed classification and the numerous advertisements, prospective purchasers are generally in a position to get in direct contact with manufacturers of the goods desired, but where information regarding specialized lines is required the gratuitous service of the Commercial Intelligence Department of the Association is offered. It is suggested that importers abroad should first communicate with Canadian Government Trade Commissioners in their respective territories. Their names are listed on pages 234 to 236 of the Export Section. Representatives of overseas firms visiting Canada are invited to call at the Head Office of the Association where they will be given every possible assistance.

Users of the Index are reminded that this edition carries 307 pages of strictly Canadian advertising, including 521 individual advertisements. There is also a new Business Card Section listing over 200 firms. The advertising in the 1951 edition exceeds that of any previous year. The value of such detailed and extensive advertisements to purchasers of Canadian products cannot be over emphasized.

The publishers wish to thank all organizations, government departments, and the manufacturers who have so kindly aided by furnishing the information on which the book is based.

The Editor.



Said the wise old owl to Laporte,
With his shiploads of goods to export:
"Who can quickly arrange
All your foreign exchange?"
"Why, The Commerce," came Laporte's retort.

With representation in more than 100 lands, The Commerce can give you valuable assistance in your foreign financial operations. See your local Commerce manager.

EXPERIENCE:

We are the oldest spring manufacturers in Canada, founded in 1869 and in that period we have mastered many difficulties. Our springs have given satisfaction, or we would not have been here to tell the tale.

WORKMANSHIP:

Our men have one and all served a long apprenticeship in the art of spring making and are familiar with every detail of a perfect spring.

EQUIPMENT:

Our machinery is of the latest, and much of it of special design perfected by ourselves, from knowledge of requirements.

HEAT-TREATMENT:

Our furnaces are all automatically controlled and the final heat-treatment is done in the latest Leeds & Northrup electric furnaces.

RAW MATERIAL:

We carry a very large assorted stock of sizes and grades of material to give prompt deliveries, and all materials as received are carefully checked both for physical and chemical analysis.

TESTS AND INSPECTION:

Every spring is carefully tested and inspected before shipment to see that the right article is supplied.

RECORDS:

Careful records are kept of all completed orders, hence we can duplicate customers' orders promptly.

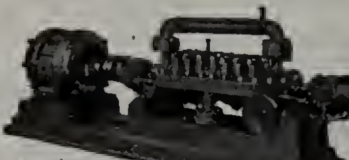
Vacuum Pump

For modern power plants and process industries, there is a complete line of steam condensing apparatus, vacuum-producing equipment, and related items, including surface and barometric condensers, steam jet ejectors, reciprocating vacuum pumps and other auxiliaries. This Company is in a position to recommend the correct size and type of condensing and vacuum producing machinery which will provide the greatest advantages in performance, operation and maintenance.

"Cameron" Pumps—

Motor Pump

Single-Stage Pump



Multi-Stage Pump

"Cameron" Pumps in service cover a remarkable range; capacities from 5 to 100,000 g.p.m., pressures 5 to 3000 lbs. per square inch, and temperatures from below freezing to 800°F. Included are units for belt or direct-connected electric motor, turbine or engine drive, and steam pumps. Besides general service units for all conditions, the "Cameron" line includes pumps for oil refineries and pipe lines, paper mill stock and acids, process chemicals and many other highly specialized applications.

"Radialaxe" Coal Cutters—

"Radialaxe" Coal Cutters

Long famous in coal producing countries is the "Radialaxe" Coal Cutter, noted for its light weight, simplicity, ease of operation, and low operating and maintenance costs. Bulletin K-400-D.

Air Motor Hoist

"Utility" Hoist

Hoisting Equipment

Outstanding among Canadian Ingersoll-Rand products are a wide range of air, steam and electric hoists for every hoisting and handling operation. For industrial plants, there are Air Motor Hoists and Direct-Lift Cylinder Air Hoists, with capacities from 200 to 20,000 lbs. For construction, many sizes of "Utility" Air Hoists and "Tugger" Electric Hoists. For mining, a broad range of air, electric and engine driven slushers, and electric hoists, single or multi-drum, parallel and tandem type.

Sand Rammer

Grinder

Pneumatic Tools

C-I-R pneumatic tools for all classes of light, medium and heavy service, include Multi-vane type Drills and Grinders, Saws, Riveters, Chippers, Clay Diggers, and many other lines, together with hose and couplings for all services. Bulletin 5000A.

Impact Wrenches

Air-operated Impact Wrenches and the Electric Impactools.

Rock Drilling Equipment—

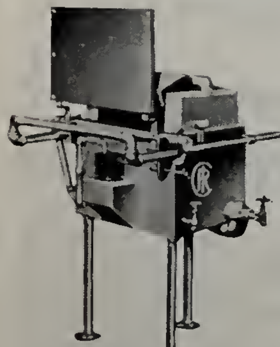
"Jackhamer"

Drifter

"Stopehamer"

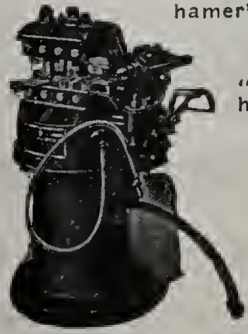
There is a C-I-R drill for every rock condition. Included are three sizes of "Jackhamers" — the JB-30, J-40 and J-50 — weighing 30, 45 and 55 lbs. respectively; 3" and 3½" bore DB-30 and DA-35 Power Feed Drifters and CR-58 "Stopehamers"; and the P-15 "Pickhamer".

"Pickhamer"

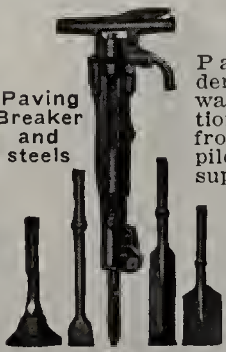


Oil Furnace

Drill Steel Sharpeners, Oil Furnaces, Detachable Bits and a varied line of equipment for grinding, threading, shanking and other steel forging and dressing operations are available.



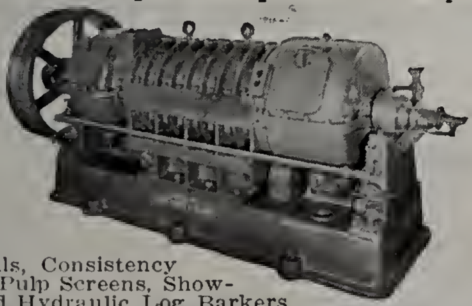
Sharpener



Paving Breaker and steels

Paving Breakers, for demolition of pavement, walls, machinery foundations, and for picking frozen ground, stock piles, etc. They can be supplied with moil points, 3" and 5" chisel steels, and with tamping pads, as shown. These tools can be converted, by the addition of special frontheads, for steel piling and drift bolt driving.

Pulp and Paper Machinery



Barking Drums, Bird Paper Screens, Jonsson Screens, Pumps, Refiners, Doctors, Conditioners, Save-Alls, Consistency Regulators, Pulp Screens, Shower Pipes and Hydraulic Log Barkers.

John Lineman says:

"You will find that Slater engineers have a keen appreciation of QUALITY".

There are major economies in having one organization responsible for producing and finishing your stampings, forgings and sheet steel parts and equipment.

N. Slater Co. provides fully co-ordinated production facilities for one or all of these services to manufacturers.

Slater engineers and craftsmen have a great deal of experience in producing quality work in all these branches of metal working and finishing.

NICHOLSON FILE COMPANY DOMINION WORKS
We've come a long way together

CANADA'S manufacturers and industrial distributors can take just as much pride in Nicholson's 50th Anniversary as we do.

For we consider our long-standing relationship with industry one of our greatest assets — and a very real reason for Nicholson's continued progress and success.

Fifty years have given Nicholson a wealth of knowledge and experience in making files to fit the specific needs of industrial users.

The years have given Nicholson something else — a tradition for quality which there is little reason to challenge. The manufacture of Black Diamond files embodies the skill of long-affiliated workers — of Canadians with whom fine workmanship is a personal pride.

Combined with this skill are: (1) file-making equipment of the most modern kind and the most highly developed efficiency; and (2) relentless inspection at every stage of production — from the selection of steel to finishing and packaging.

Black Diamond files have become the standard for Canada. And with the co-operation and good will of our customers, we aim to maintain that standard.

STEEL SHEET PILING

Sole Canadian Makers of STEEL SHEET PILING. Supplied in open hearth carbon steel of structural grade or high tensile carbon steel. Alloyed with copper or chromium where necessary to resist corrosion. Three distinct types to suit heavy, intermediate or light construction. Driving caps and fabricated corners.

STEEL

Foremost Canadian producer of railroad, structural and alloy steels, Algoma supplies carbon and alloy steels to domestic and export markets for automobiles, buildings, bridges, agricultural implements, mining equipment, docks and drainage structures, household products, machinery, rails and railroad equipment, public utilities and for other products and uses.

ALLOY STEELS

Pioneers in Canada of Alloy Steels in hot rolled sections, bars and billets. Specially suited to conditions demanding high tensile strength and shock resistance combined with reduced weight. Chromium, Nickel, Vanadium, Molybdenum, Copper, Manganese, Silicon, singly or in combination, can be supplied to S.A.E. or customers' specifications.

BILLETS — BLOOMS — SLABS

Made of Algoma high-quality Steel for rerolling and forging. Supplied in carbon and alloy grades. BILLETS AND BLOOMS in all squares from 2½″ x 2½″ to 20″ x 20″ inclusive. SLABS from 4″ to 32″ wide—any thickness 2″ and over.

FORGED STEEL GRINDING BALLS

Most up-to-date manufacturing methods guarantee uniform density . . . roundness . . . smoothness . . . maximum crushing efficiency . . . wearing quality. Accurate heat treatment assures hardness all the way through. Sizes: 2″ to 5″ inclusive.

GRINDING RODS

Special high carbon grinding rods used by the mining industry throughout Canada. Complete range of sizes.

PIG IRON

Algoma machine cast PIG in all grades of FOUNDRY, MALLEABLE, BASIC IRON.

RAILS — Standard and Mining

Canadian, British and American Standard Sections to 130 lbs. per yard. A.S.C.E. sections 12 lb. to 45 lb. inclusive.

RAIL FASTENINGS

Angle bars and 100% joints fitting all standard rail sections to 130 lbs. per yard. Fish plates for light rails.

Tieplates: "Lundie", "Sellers Anchor Bottom" and "Compression Bottom" designs, fitting all standard rail sections.

REINFORCING BARS

Of new billet open hearth steel. Round or square. Give strength and permanence to concrete construction.

THE two most harmful deterrents—dirt and water—are both removed continuously from oil by De Laval Centrifugal Force. This continuous protection costs only a fraction of the expense incurred when even a single failure is caused by impure lubricants.

A De Laval Oil Purifier acts in two ways: (1) It removes foreign materials from oil (or other liquids) and (2) it separates two liquids of different specific gravities.

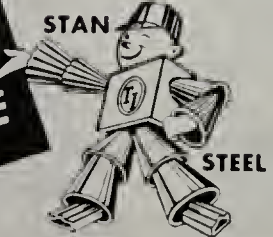
STAN TI STEEL

Electric Welded Steel Tubing provides a design medium with a high strength to weight ratio for economical serviceable products with an inherent smoothness for fine finishes. Available in a range of sizes from ¼″ to 3″ outside diameter from 22 to 13 BWG, it can be supplied in round, square, rectangular, and special shapes. "Stan-Steel" specializes in bending, acetylene and arc welding, beading, flanging, tapering, flattening, hydrostatic testing annealing, and many other operations.

"STAN TI STEEL" EQUIPMENT

The handling of goods with the least possible expenditure of time, effort and money is the key problem in every industry. The solution for many companies has been to standardize on "Stan-Steel" Trucks, ladders and shop furniture.



"Stan-Steel" Nesting Chairs and Tables are used extensively where seating space must also serve other purposes.

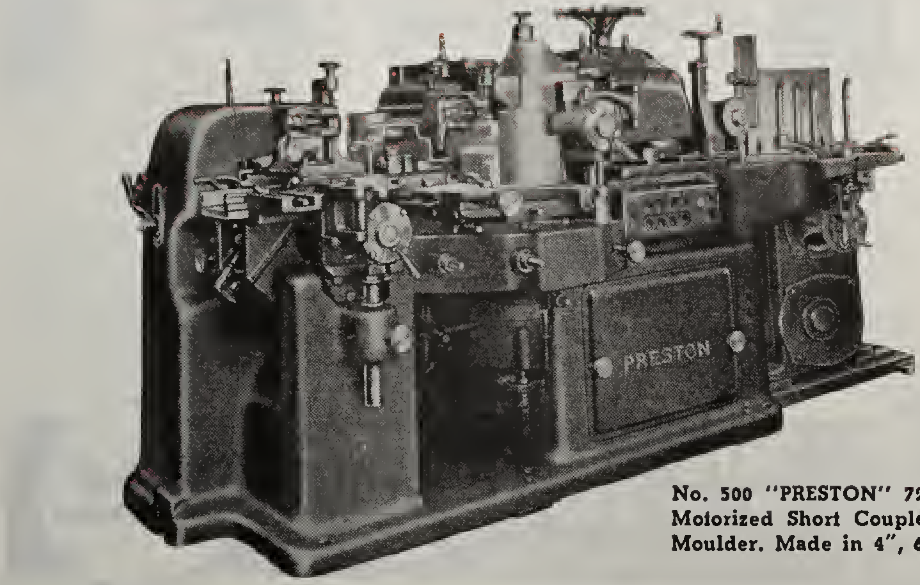
THE "PRESTON No. 500"

THE FINEST MOULDER WE'VE EVER MADE



All Electric

No. 500 "PRESTON" 7200 rpm Heavy, Motorized Short Coupled, Chain Feed Moulder. Made in 4", 6" and 8" sizes.

This new PRESTON No. 500 is sturdy, compact, motorized, chain feed moulder embodying every conceivable refinement.

Here are some of the features: Specially manufactured precision ball and roller bearings throughout. Feeds speed ranging from 12½ to 180 through a "REEVES" Variable Speed Drive Unit. All adjustments made from front of machine. Continuous Bed construction with hardened chrome plated bed sections which can be removed for replacement. Wide open accessibility, all heads quickly cleared for changes and adjustments. Special type hardened steel chain. Universal Hooper Feed of new and unique design (optional). Hinged outboard bearings on 6″ and 8″ machine. Aluminum dust hoods, automatic Madison Kipp lubrication for chain and central lubrication panel for Alemite. Brakes on all heads. Sturdy dust proof Louis Allis ventilated motors. Square 'D' Magnetic Controls, with Push Button Panel. Jogger feed button to facilitate setting up.

"PRESTON" service includes a complete range of thoroughly modern Canadian made woodworking machines—both LIGHT and HEAVY. These embody advanced engineering principals, making for accuracy and good volume at low cost.

Particular attention is given to developing and making special attachments or machines to meet specific requirements. If you have any particular problem to solve put it up to "PRESTON".

An advanced Engineering Department is available for complete equipping of any type of plant manufacturing wood products and the most modern and up-to-date layout to suit your production requirements are supplied.

QUALITY SERVICE

Made in Canada for 39 years

Speed Reducers

Used wherever High Speed Power is applied to Low Speed Use

Worm gear and helical gear units, in single and multiple reduction, are made in a wide range of sizes. Send for catalogue on either of these types, listing standard sizes, with power capacities and detail specifications. These are high grade, heavy duty gear drives, designed and rated for 24-hour continuous service. Ratios are available up to six thousand to one in simple, efficient, self-contained units.

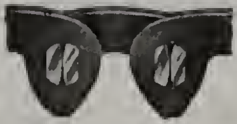
Planetary Gear Unit
coupled to motor



The Compensating Joint

Silent Chain Drives

The Hamilton-Ramsey silent chain (made in Canada) will operate at higher speeds, and run smoother and with less wear than any competing chain because of the compensating rolling cam action in the patented Ramsey joint. Supplied in 3/8″ to 1-1/2″ pitch.

GEARS

Industrial Cut Gears

for Every Use
and of Any Material

CAPACITIES :—

Spur Gears up to	205 ins.
Internal Gears to	84 ins.
Bevel Gears up to	62 ins.
Worm Wheels to	250 ins.
Helical, Spiral or Herringbone	205 ins.
Closed Apex Herringbone	48 ins.
Hardened Steel Gears up to	69 ins.
Racks up to length of	45 ft.

ROLDWELD Steel Spur Gears

This electric-welded steel gear has a .45% C. forging-quality rim. It is long wearing and practically unbreakable. The cost is less than a steel casting, the strength is greater, and delivery can be made in a quarter of the time. See photo above.

Flexible Couplings

A full line of standard flexible couplings for both high speed and slow speed, the former illustrated here, are carried in stock. Larger sizes to order. We also stock small power flexible couplings down to fractional h.p. ratings. Send for couplings catalogue.

APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES FOR

Flame-Welding Flame-Cutting Flame-Gouging
Flame-Hardening Flame-Priming Flame-Descaling
—AND OTHER DOC METAL-WORKING METHODS

MACHINE APPARATUS — Included in the complete line of Oxweld apparatus are portable and stationary oxy-acetylene shape-cutting machines; straight-line cutting machines; flame-hardening apparatus; bar and billet cut-off machines; equipment for automatic welding; and tractor units for plate-edge preparation. Write for a catalog, specifying the type of equipment in which you are interested.

HAND APPARATUS available from DOC includes oxy-acetylene blowpipes for welding and heating work; oxy-acetylene cutting blowpipes, cutting attachments, and nozzles; and oxy-acetylene descaling and flame-priming equipment. Oxweld apparatus is supplied from DOC offices and warehouses. The Purox line and Prest-O-Lite air-acetylene appliances for soldering and brazing are distributed by industrial and automotive jobbers. Write for a catalog, specifying the apparatus you require.

GENERATORS and MANIFOLDS—Oxweld acetylene generators produce low-cost acetylene and are available for both portable and stationary use—with generating capacities of from 30 to 9,000 cu. ft. per hour. Oxweld oxygen and acetylene manifolds are used for centralizing the oxygen and acetylene supply from cylinders. Send for a catalog describing this equipment.

UNIONMELT WELDING—This unique electric process makes high-quality welds in any commercially used thickness of steel at high speeds and without flash, glare, or sparks. The process is automatic. Speed and current values are established by controls adjusted by the operator. Either alternating or direct welding current can be used.

WELDING RODS, FLUXES, AND SUPPLIES Oxweld welding rods and fluxes are of exceptionally high quality. The many kinds and sizes of Oxweld rods make it possible to select the one that will give best results on each job. The Oxweld line also includes gloves, goggles, lighters, hose, ferrules, and asbestos paper. Rods, fluxes, and supplies are available from DOC or from automotive and industrial jobbers. Write for a descriptive price list.

OXYGEN . . . ACETYLENE . . . CARBIDE —Dominion oxygen, Prest-O-Lite acetylene, and Union Carbide are distributed through numerous plants and warehouses located to assure dependable deliveries and low transportation costs.

HELIARC WELDING — This high-speed welding process makes clean, smooth joints in stainless steel, high-carbon steel, aluminum, magnesium, brass, copper, silicon copper, Inconel, silver, cast iron and HASTELLOY alloys.

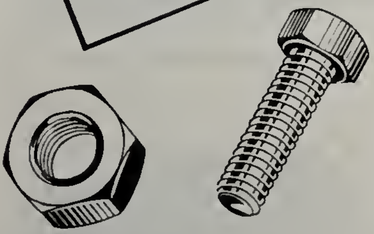
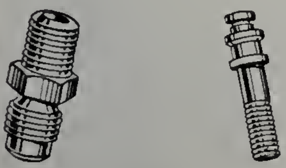
ACME



STANDARD SCREW PRODUCTS

Supplied from Stock

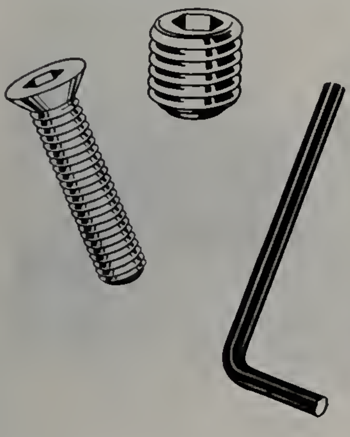
Cap screws, set screws, S.F. nuts . . . these in their untold thousands make up the products that are termed "Standard" in our industry. Wherever your specifications call for fasteners, check the Acme catalogue for complete data. Chances are, that an Acme Standard will fill the bill economically and satisfactorily.



SPECIAL SCREW PRODUCTS

in Quantities to Order

Perhaps it's a non-standard item . . . or a tiny fastener that hasn't been designed or machined to exact dimensions. Then again, it might be that a complete modification of a sub-assembly is required. At any rate, investigation will reveal the trouble and Acme's Screw Products Division can help you solve it to your satisfaction.



ALLEN HEX-SOCKET CAP & SET SCREWS AND KEYS

Allen Hex-Socket Cap and Set Screws are in constant demand because of their rugged, wear-resisting strength. Also available from stock are Allen Dowel Pins, Shoulder Screws and Key & Screw Assortments.

BRASS, BRONZE AND COPPER
MILL PRODUCTS OF DEPENDABLE, UNIFORM QUALITY

Noranda's large, modern brass mill, built in 1941 to supply cartridge brass for war purposes, has been converted into an integrated mill for making sheet, rod, wire and tubing for industrial needs and for the building field.

All mill processing is under careful supervision of the laboratory, which helps maintain metal of the proper composition, temper, surface and uniform high quality demanded by modern fabrication methods.

STRIP—Strip is furnished in rolls and flat lengths to meet requirements for deep drawing, spinning and forming, as well as for building construction. In addition to copper, it is produced in such alloys as Yellow Brass, Cartridge Brass, Low and Rich Low Brass, Commercial Bronze, Gilding Metal, Phosphor Bronze and Nickel Silver.

WIRE—Various alloys are made in this form in a range of sizes with temper and surface suitable for making cold-headed bolts, screws, rivets, miscellaneous upset parts, or for wire forming operations.

ROD—Free-turning brass rod, carried in stock at the mill, is made in a range of sizes for the manufacture of screw machine items and other products. Corrosion-resistant Naval Brass rod, and rod for hot forging are also produced. Bronze Welding Rod for repairing iron and steel parts and building up worn surfaces is manufactured in several alloys.

TUBING—The tube mill makes Copper Water Tubing for plumbing, heating and fuel oil lines as well as Red Brass Pipe. Tubing with special tempers is produced for fabrication purposes.

piping maintenance costs more now!

You do less of it by using Dependable Quality CRANE valves, fittings and all varieties of fabricated piping

. . . no bonnet trouble with this valve

A typical example of low-maintenance Crane Quality—No. 465½ 125-Pound Iron Body Gates. Rarely does the bonnet joint need attention. Flange construction includes reinforcement to prevent distortion and utilizes more bolts, more closely spaced than is usual in valves of this class. Crane precision-guided seating reduces seat and disc wear. Packing has long life because these valves have a deep stuffing box filled with high grade asbestos ring packing. A ball-type gland equalizes the packing load.

Better performance features like these make Crane the better buy in valves and fittings of every type. Ask your Crane Representative for a demonstration.

CRANE PLUMBING FIXTURES...

for Homes, Industry and Institutions

— a complete line in a variety of materials for a variety of needs

All manufactured to CRANE standards, designed for long life under severe service conditions, Crane plumbing fixtures — including bathtubs and lavatories, urinals and water closets, sinks and laundry tubs — are made in a variety of types and sizes — of Vitreous China, Porcelain Enameled Cast Iron, Porcelain-on-Steel and "Duraclay".

Matching them is a complete line of long-life chrome-plated plumbing brass.

CRANE HEATING EQUIPMENT...

to meet a wide range of requirements

Dependable Crane Boilers are available in a wide selection of capacities for every type of fuel — for the smallest or largest home, and singly or in series, to suit many commercial, institutional and industrial requirements.

Crane provides, too, all the piping, valves and fittings and the radiators — free-standing or wall-hung, exposed or concealed — including the new radiant baseboard panels — to complete a modern installation.

For complete information, ask your Crane Branch or write:

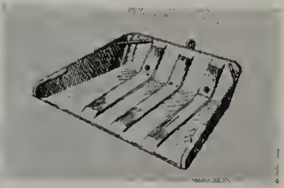
DOMAL MAGNESIUM

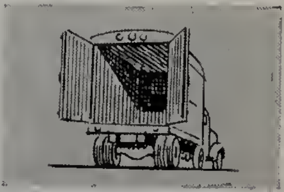
gives Lightness and Strength to many Products

DOMAL Magnesium ingot metal is steadily growing in popularity with foundries and fabricators because magnesium castings and extrusions have repeatedly demonstrated their adaptability to a wide variety of uses.

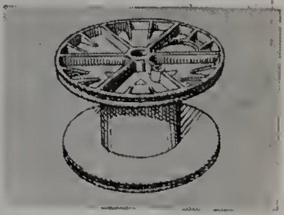
● MAGNESIUM LADDERS wholly fabricated from low cost magnesium extrusions are in great demand because of their unbelievably long life, light weight, and resulting economy.



● MAGNESIUM GRAIN SHOVELS save time and money for the Canadian grain industry. Each magnesium shovel saves up to 100 pounds in weight over the steel shovel previously used, enjoys a longer life, and makes big savings in labour costs.



● MAGNESIUM EXTRUSIONS for framing truck bodies have proven popular because they reduce weight, permit higher pay load and greater operating economy.



● MAGNESIUM WIRE SPOOLS not only proved cheaper in the long run than conventional steel-wood spools but were light enough to save shipping costs and durable enough to last six time as long.

● For more information on the adaptability of magnesium contact Sales Department.

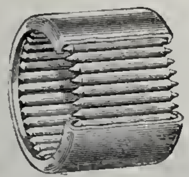
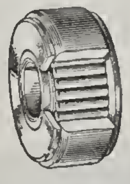
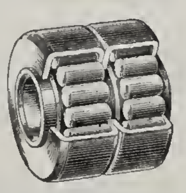
One of these Torrington Bearings may solve a design problem for you...



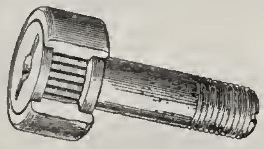
Type DC Needle Bearing is suitable for applications where size, weight and cost must be held to a minimum.



Type AT Needle Bearing is designed for aircraft applications to be used in conjunction with standard AN bolts.

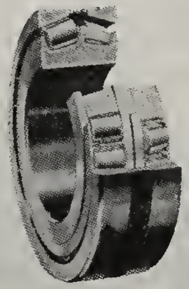


Type P N (Double Row) Needle Bearing meets all aircraft pulley requirements for primary control applications.



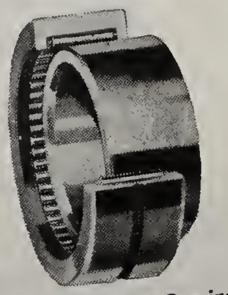
Type R C Needle Bearing is designed for cam follower service and rolling loads, where outer race is not supported by housing.

Self-Aligning Spherical Roller Bearing is designed for heavy-duty applications to meet conditions of misalignment.



Double Row Tapered Roller Bearing carries heavy radial and thrust loads where maximum stability is required.

Single Row Straight Roller Bearing is adaptable for high radial loads where simplicity of design, assembly and maintenance are important.



Type NCS Needle Bearing is particularly suitable for severe load applications and the most exacting service conditions.

It may not have occurred to you that there are so many different types of Torrington Bearings—or that the completeness of the line of these modern, anti-friction bearings makes them adaptable to many design requirements.

Pictured above are eight different types—and there are others, all different in design, to assure you a wide choice to meet any specific requirement. Each is engineered for a particular task—or combination of design requirements. Individually each offers the same characteristic advantages of unit design, anti-friction operation, high capacity, efficient lubrication, simple installation and maintenance.

The result is that in almost any application where Torrington Bearings are employed the design problem is simplified; operating efficiency and service life are increased; manufacturing costs are reduced; and sales features are added.

Investigate for yourself how the advantages of Torrington's complete line of anti-friction bearings can be of assistance in your product planning. Full information is available on request, and our engineering staff is ready to help you with any design requirement.

PAPERS WITH A PURPOSE

The papers which bear the "R" Shield watermark have a mission in life. Each one endeavors, in its own niche, to provide a medium most suitable and as fine as possible for the use intended.

For each department of commercial correspondence and records you will find an appropriate Rolland paper. In the purchase of paper for your particular requirements, to specify a Rolland product will always assure a sheet that is best suited to the type of work you have in hand.

PROVINCIAL

CRANES and HOISTS

Original thinking in Crane and Hoist design has produced the Provincial line illustrated here. First the Level Luffing Crane with balanced jib, no derrick ropes, no clutches. Saves power, works faster and is safer than former designs.

Hand or electrically operated Cranes of all sizes and capacities, for power house, steel mill or factory.

Provincial Chain Hoists from ¼ to 20 tons are lighter yet stronger. Newest model is the "HIEST-LIFT" hoist with minimum beam to hook height — cuts building cost or gives more headroom in existing buildings.

Electric Hoists from ½ to 20 tons—compact and simple design, with high safety factor. All moving parts encased in weatherproof steel framework.

In addition to the manufacture of Cranes and Hoists, Provincial maintains an Installation Service to equip new plants from ground to roof, or for removal and re-erection of existing Mining, Pulp and Paper or Industrial plants.

Throughout the farms of Canada, in the East and in the West, to the far corners of the world, the name Cockshutt stands as a symbol of progressive mechanized farming.

The wealth of experience gained through over a century of continuing research into the fundamental problems of farmers in every clime is embodied in all Cockshutt equipment. Every unit is subjected to the most rigid field tests Cockshutt engineers can devise. Every unit does the job for which it was designed to bring you greater land yields, increased profits.

For complete information on Cockshutt farming equipment, contact the Cockshutt representative nearest you or write direct to our Head Office.

BLENDING perfectly with the red, white and blue funnels, the picturesque Houseflag of the CANADIAN NATIONAL (West Indies) STEAMSHIPS has been a familiar sight to travellers and residents in the West Indies for more than thirty years . . . The trim white ships over which it flies have established for themselves an enviable reputation . . . Implementing the CANADA WEST INDIES TRADE AGREEMENT they have opened up avenues of trade which have been of inestimable value to exporters and importers in Canada and the Caribbean area, and the CANADIAN NATIONAL STEAMSHIPS' organization is proud of the role it has played in building up this mutually profitable business.

Throughout the years we have acquired a wealth of information concerning Caribbean imports, exports and conditions generally and this is available at all times to interested enquirers.

RELIANCE Spring LOCK WASHERS

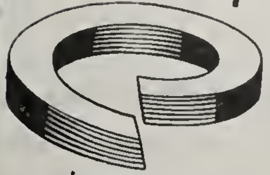
keep bolted assemblies tighter longer



The powerful coil spring design of Reliance Spring Lock Washers prevents back-turning of nuts and keeps bolted assemblies under constant tension, automatically compensating for developed looseness. The heavy, fatigue-resisting spring-steel sections and wide reactive range keep assemblies tighter longer. Investigate the many advantages of Reliance Spring Lock Washers before specifying any fastening device. A complete range of sizes and types in carbon steel.

EATON Springtites AND Sems

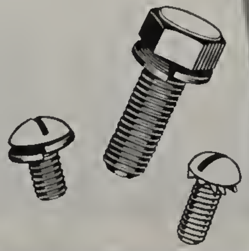
for both - dependable, enduring bolt tightness - and fast, economical assembly



Eaton Springtites (Spring Lock Washers pre-assembled on bolts or screws) cut assembly operations from eight to three while retaining spring lock washer advantages. Insure proper lock washer on every bolt, simplify handling and inventory.

Eaton Sems (Multi-prong lock washers pre-assembled on bolt or screw) are ideal for lighter assemblies.

Sizes and type for every requirement.

Service on Screw Machine Parts Eaton's large, up-to-date screw machine and centreless grinding departments with complete tooling facilities offer good service on screw machine and precision ground parts at reasonable cost. Send specifications for estimates.

REECE AUTOMATIC FOLDING MACHINE

This most up-to-date automatic folding machine is a boon to manufacturers of fine shirts, work shirts and sports clothing and it's so simplified it can be operated efficiently by inexperienced help —very easy to set up dies for operation.

POSITIVE UNIFORM WORK

Every article is folded exactly to the size and shape desired. There is no variation, for the quality of work does not depend upon the operator's skill-of-the-moment. When the article leaves the machine, it is not merely creased—it is folded flat and firmly.

This speeds subsequent stitching operations, because every piece from this machine comes to the next operation perfectly and uniformly formed—reducing costs, time and irritation.

THE INTERNATIONAL NICKEL COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED

25 KING STREET WEST - - - - TORONTO, CANADA

PRIMARY NICKEL FOR ALLOYING IRON, STEEL, BRASS & BRONZE

FOR WROUGHT STEEL — Electrolytic Cathode, 99.5% nickel (including Cobalt), sheared to 1", 2", 4" and 9" squares for the production of wrought nickel steels.

Nickel Oxide Sinter — Contains approximately 75% nickel in sintered form and is screened so that the individual particles are approximately from ¼" to ½" mesh. It is particularly adaptable to electric furnace production, particularly of the higher alloy steels.

FOR STEEL CASTINGS—For the production of nickel alloy steel castings, electrolytic nickel squares and "XX" nickel shot are used.

FOR BRASS OR BRONZE—For the production of non-ferrous castings, electrolytic nickel squares, "XX" nickel shot and 50-50 copper-nickel shot are used.

FOR CAST IRON—"F" Nickel is a special grade o nickel recommended for making additions to cast iron It is a low melting point product (about 2300°F. as compared to 2640°F. for pure nickel) containing approximately 92% nickel, balance silicon. It is available in 5 lb. ingots for cupola additions and in shot form for additions at the cupola point or to the ladle.

Electrolytic nickel is a carbon free product. For direct cupola melting, electrolytic nickel in the most convenient size is used.

"NCC" Ingot is an especially prepared nickel-copper-chromium ingot of proper balance for use in producing Ni-Resist,† a cast alloy iron with high resistance to heat and corrosion.

"N-H" Ingot is used for the production of Ni-Hard, an abrasion resistant alloy suitable for many abrasion applications in mining, ceramic and allied industries.

NISILOY*—An inoculant for improving machinability and structure of gray iron castings, Nisiloy contains approximately 60% nickel, 30% silicon, balance essentially iron.

† Canadian Patent No. 278,180

HIGH NICKEL ROLLED PRODUCTS

MONEL*—A non-ferrous alloy containing approximately 70% of nickel and 30% of copper with high strength and hardness, and good resistance to many corrosives. It is used extensively in the chemical, marine, power equipment, laundry, food service, pickling, roofing, petroleum, household equipment, and pulp and paper industries.

"K"* AND "KR"* MONEL—"K" and "KR" Monel are age hardenable varieties of Monel. "KR", in addition, is free machining. They are available only in rolled and forged forms. Used in aircraft instrument parts and control mechanisms; high strength marine propellor shafts; for safety tools; and in the petroleum industry for sour crudes production equipment, sucker rods, pump shafts, pump rods and valves.

NICKEL—Rolled nickel contains approximately 99.5% nickel. Its uses include spark plug electrodes for the automotive industry; tanks and vessels used to manufacture rayon, toilet soaps, caustic soda, plastics; tub screens grids, plates, and cathodes for electrical, electronic and radio industries; steam jacketed kettles, ice cream liners for food industries; plater bars for jewellery. Thirty-five countries, including Canada, use nickel for coins.

INCONEL*—Inconel is a high strength, non-magnetic, nickel-chromium-iron alloy, containing approximately 80% of nickel, and 14% of chromium. It was developed primarily for freedom from tarnishing and other effects of corrosion in the food industries. Its composition, however, makes it resistant to a wide variety of other corrosives which is responsible for a wide industrial use. The alloy has been applied extensively for service at elevated temperatures, notably in the heat treat field and the aircraft industry.

HIGH NICKEL CASTINGS

MONEL*—Monel castings have essentially the same resistance to corrosion as wrought Monel and are used for pump impeller casings, valve bodies, bushings and fittings.

"S"* MONEL — A small silicon addition confers age-hardening characteristics. "S" Monel has excellent gall and erosion resistance, thus making it particularly suitable for valve seats, and sliding or other moving parts. It retains high hardness at red heat.

NICKEL—Cast nickel has corrosion resistance similar to that of wrought nickel and is useful for applications in process equipment handling corrosives. It is used when it is desired to avoid metallic contamination of a product.

INCONEL*—Inconel castings supplement wrought Inconel and are used under particularly severe, corrosive conditions where neither Monel nor nickel is satisfactory.

TECHNICAL SERVICE

A large staff of engineers and specialists on technical subjects is maintained throughout Canada, United States and Great Britain. The cumulative experience of these men is available on request. In the consideration of new products, or better equipment to produce your product, the use of nickel or one of the many nickel alloys might prove highly advantageous.

You have 100 business representatives abroad!

The sign over their door may be the old familiar "Canadian Government Trade Commissioner," or they may be attached to a Canadian diplomatic or consular office—but the men of Canada's Foreign Trade Service are on the spot the world over to provide you with practical market information and assistance, export and import.

Write to them direct, or write to the Foreign Trade Service, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

Foreword

SPECIAL EXPORT SECTION

by THE RIGHT HONOURABLE C. D. HOWE

Minister of Trade and Commerce

FOREIGN commerce contributes to Canada's prosperity to a degree that is equalled by few other countries. The main objective of the Foreign Trade Service, and the other divisions of the Department of Trade and Commerce concerned with the promotion of Canada's foreign trade, is to maintain and increase these levels by rendering the best possible service to Canadian exporters and importers in their efforts to maintain old trade connections and to make new ones.

I would like to pay a tribute to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for the valuable services they have rendered for many years to Canadian business in the maintenance of Canada's prominent position in world trade. This new issue of the Canadian Trade Index will, like its predecessors, furnish invaluable information of practical assistance to those who seek to buy or sell in Canada.

FOREIGN TRADE SERVICE ABROAD

Officers of the Canadian Trade Commissioner service are located in forty-one countries. Trade Commissioners are responsible to headquarters in Ottawa for the development of commercial relations with many other countries within their respective territories, as set forth in the alphabetical list below.

It is recommended that prospective exporters and importers should communicate with the Director of the Trade Commissioner Service, in Ottawa, before discussing their various problems with Trade Commissioners, as much of the information required can be made available to them by officers at headquarters responsible for the various geographical areas.

FOREIGN TRADE SERVICE

TRADE COMMISSIONER SERVICE

The Trade Commissioner Service consists of headquarters at Ottawa and offices administered by Trade Commissioners in various British and foreign countries. The Director has charge of the work of the Service at home and abroad, assisted by two Assistant Directors.

The headquarters staff also includes a group of officials in charge of five world area sections, who are responsible for co-ordinating the work of the Trade Commissioner Service pertaining to their respective areas. In addition to this, these officials are responsible for general information and inquiries regarding trade in their respective areas.

At present there are fifty-three offices abroad. In addition to the trade commissioner, some offices have one or more assistant trade commissioners. At some posts these trade officers are attached to diplomatic missions and have the title and rank of Commercial Counsellor, Commercial Secretary, Consul or Vice-Consul, as the case may be.

Trade Commissioners promote both the export and import trade of Canada, and their services are at the disposal of firms and individuals interested in Canada's trade expansion.

The duties of the Trade Commissioner are to introduce Canadian exporters and importers to the corresponding businessmen of other countries; to study conditions and needs of the territories where they are located; to obtain and forward inquiries for Canadian goods to headquarters at Ottawa and Canadian exporters; to report on import requirements in their territories and to make direct inquiries or conduct preliminary surveys regarding the potential market for any product, reporting the exact kinds of goods wanted, competition to be met, methods of packing, shipping or billing, tariffs and trade regulations affecting these goods, etc.

With regard to imports, Trade Commissioners assist Canadian importers and manufacturers who desire advice on the present and prospective supply of goods and materials available in various countries, best methods of purchase, methods of approach to overseas suppliers, prices, specifications, packing, etc.

Trade developments the world over are reported by Trade Commissioners to the Department at Ottawa, and this information is available to all Canadian exporters and importers. They also prepare periodic reports on trade, business and financial conditions, markets for particular commodities, materials available for supply for import into Canada, and other related subjects for publication in Foreign Trade or in pamphlet form.

Trade Commissioners' Tours

The periodical return of Trade Commissioners for official tours of the Dominion is one of the most important factors in effecting practical co-operation between Canadian firms interested in foreign trade and businessmen in other countries. The Trade Commissioner can, during the course of his tour, call upon or discuss export and import problems with practically every firm specially interested in exporting to, or importing from, his territory. The Department endeavours to bring back the Trade Commissioners by a scheme of rotation, giving special consideration to officers in tropical or unhealthy posts, but these visits are always subject to the exigencies of trading conditions, and of the Service generally. Well in advance of the time of arrival in Canada individual exporters and importers are circularized for the purpose of determining what special points they wish to take up and on which full information is secured. In addition to this form of publicity, the Department publishes a notice in Foreign Trade inviting firms who may be interested in any particular territory to state whether an interview is desired. The names of such firms, together with those with whom the Trade Commissioner has been in communication, form the basis of the itinerary. Firms anxious to interview any Trade Commissioner on tour may do so by communicating with the Director of the Service.

Assistance Supplied to Traders by Canadian Trade Commissioners

Canadian trade commissioners, as members of a large promotional organization having its headquarters in Ottawa and fifty-three offices in forty-one foreign countries, are in a position to assist manufacturers, exporters and importers. They study potential markets for specific Canadian commodities, report on the kind of goods required, competitive conditions, trade regulations, tariffs, shipping facilities and packaging requirements. These commercial envoys also seek new sources of supply, especially for raw materials required by industry in this country, and assist the foreign exporter in marketing his products in Canada.

The Canadian Trade Commissioner Service rests on solid foundations, which were laid in 1892, when the Department of Trade and Commerce came into existence. There were then only six "commercial agents" in the British West Indies and British Guiana, and one in Norway. Three years later a commercial agent was appointed in Sydney, Australia. The Canadian Commercial Agency Service was renamed the Canadian Trade Commissioner Service in 1907, when the number of its field force and the sphere of its operations were increased. Some indication of the growth in Canada's foreign trade during the last fifty-nine years is revealed by the following statistics. Domestic exports in 1891 were valued at $88,600,000, compared with $3,118.1 million in 1950. Imports, on the other hand, were valued at only $11,500,000 in 1891, compared with $3,174.1 million in 1950.

Reports Published in Foreign Trade

Reports on economic conditions in their respective territories are prepared by trade commissioners, and these are published in Foreign Trade. This also contains a number of commodity reports, information on trade regulations and tariff changes, and other commercial data of value to firms engaged in foreign trade. The annual subscription to Foreign Trade is one dollar, for delivery in Canada, and $3.50 for delivery abroad. All applications and remittances should be forwarded to the King's Printer, Government Printing Bureau, Ottawa.

Inquiries of a general character concerning the demand for Canadian goods in foreign markets, trade regulations, customs duties, import restrictions imposed by other countries and other pertinent information should be addressed by exporters to the Foreign Trade Service, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa. All firms interested in exporting should be listed in the Exporters' Directory. Application forms may be obtained from the Exporters' and Importers' Directory Section, Commodities Branch.

More specific information required by exporters should be obtained from Canadian Trade Commissioners in the territory concerned. A list of these trade commissioners, and the territories for which they are responsible, are contained in each issue of Foreign Trade. General information of the following character can be provided:

(a) Present and prospective market requirements.
(b) Competition, domestic and foreign. Representative catalogues and prices may also be provided.
(c) Best selling methods.
(d) Reports on foreign firms, if not available at headquarters in Ottawa.

Detailed Information Available

Trade Commissioners can also:

(a) Recommend responsible parties in a position to act as agents, distributors or buyers.
(b) Assist such agents by introducing them to individuals or associations who may be interested in the purchase of Canadian products, and in other ways.
(c) Furnish confidential information, when so requested, concerning the activities of a Canadian exporter's agent or firms to which sales have been made.
(d) Indicate the most suitable advertising media for different commodities, and their adaptation to the special requirements of the community in which it is desired to sell a product.
(e) Recommend the most satisfactory distribution of catalogues and price lists, and the display of samples.
(f) Indicate the most suitable methods of distributing other trade literature and the costs involved.
(g) Assist in the settlement of difficulties that may arise between Canadian exporters and their buyers abroad.
(h) Provide information concerning local freight rates, tariffs, port charges, etc., so as to enable Canadian exporters to quote prices for delivery overseas.
(i) Furnish information on the cost of travel, regulations governing commercial travellers, packaging and marking of goods, shipping accommodation, storage facilities and any special government regulations.

Financial information of the following nature may be obtained from Canadian Trade Commissioners:

(a) Terms of credit available to foreign buyers.
(b) Financial houses that will discount bills or extend credit.
(c) Regulations governing the recovery of debts in foreign countries.
(d) Disposal of goods for which buyers have contracted but are not accepted.
(e) Infringement of trade marks or patent rights, and advice on registration.

Trade Commissioners will welcome visitors from Canada and introduce them to possible buyers or agents. They will also put visitors in touch with banking and shipping representatives, interpreters and legal advisers.

Facts Required by Trade Commissioners

Exporters should provide Canadian Trade Commisioners with the following basic information:

(a) Catalogues and best export c.i.f. port of entry or, failing that, f.o.b. Canadian port. Prices f.o.b. factory are of little value.
(b) Details of manufacture, if desirable.
(c) Technical information concerning the use of products concerned, if applicable.
(d) Bankers' references.
(e) Elapsed time between receipt of order and probable shipment.
(f) Quantities for which orders will be accepted.
(g) Previous connections, if any, with agents or importers. If connections still exist, their bearing on fresh contacts made through the trade commissioner should be indicated.
(h) Previous experience in the territory served by the trade commissioner.
(i) Marketing methods found most successful in Canada and in other countries.
(j) Type of agent or distributor considered to be most desirable.

Samples should not be forwarded to trade commissioners or prospective agents with the first exchange of correspondence. Regulations governing the importation of samples prevail in some countries. Heavy fines may be levied, unless these are observed, irrespective of any attempt to defraud the customs authorities, and there may be no appeal. Furthermore, in order to avoid unnecessary expense, it is advisable to await a request for samples, and instructions as to their shipment should be carefully followed.

On receipt of this information, the trade commissioner should be enabled to make a survey of his territory on behalf of the exporter, indicate the opportunities for marketing the commodities concerned, and place the exporter in touch with reliable importers or recommend suitable agents.

Information Available to Importers

Inquiries of a general character concerning the production and available supplies of raw materials and other products in foreign countries, shipping facilities and Canadian import regulations should be directed by prospective importers in this country to the Import Division, Foreign Trade Service, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa. All Canadian firms interested in importing should be listed in the Directory of Canadian Importers, maintained by this division, from which application forms may be obtained.

More specific information required by importers should be obtained from Canadian Trade Commissioners in the territory concerned, such as:

(a) Present and expected supply of goods.
(b) Types and classes of goods offering.
(c) Competitive nature of goods, with prices, terms and catalogues.
(d) Best purchasing methods.
(e) Report on suppliers.
(f) Specifications and quality of goods in supply.
(g) Basis on which sales should be made.
(h) Definite enquiries received from exporters.
(i) Shipping services.
(j) Foreign government export licensing.

Trade Commissioners can also:

(a) Recommend responsible supply houses, manufacturers and their agents.
(b) Assist such suppliers and provide them with information on Canadian import requirements.
(c) Advise the best methods of approach to foreign suppliers of materials, marketing organizations, control boards, etc.
(d) Assist in the settlement of differences that may arise between Canadian importers and firms from which goods are being purchased.
(e) Furnish foreign supply houses or agents in their respective territories with information concerning:
    (i) Canadian regulations and documentation governing imports into Canada.
    (ii) Certification of documents.
    (iii) Canadian Customs invoicing.
    (iv) Marking, handling and general handling of products.
    (v) Canadian Customs tariff rulings, as requested.
    (vi) Import quotas and permits.

Financial information of the following nature may be obtained from Canadian Trade Commissioners:

(a) Financing.
(b) Terms of purchasing.
(c) Basis of payments.
(d) Exchange factors and exchange control regulations.

Importers should provide Canadian Trade Commissioners with the following basic information:

(a) Nature of business, i.e. manufacturer, importer, etc.
(b) Banker's and trade references.
(c) Whether previously engaged in import trade.
(d) Experience, if any, in the territory served by the trade commissioner, and if at present importing materials therefrom.
(e) Specific details on materials required.
(f) Price range to be met, and basis on which prices should be quoted.
(g) Quantity and quality of goods required, whether these are to be purchased on a consignment or outright basis, and when these should be delivered.
(h) Possible future requirements.

With this information at his disposal, the trade commissioner is in a position to canvass prospective suppliers, advise the Canadian importer of any response to his enquiry, and place him in touch with interested suppliers.

COMMODITIES BRANCH

The Commodities Branch co-ordinates the activities of twenty-five commodity officers in the Export and Import Divisions, which furnish information to Canadian businessmen who sell or buy abroad.

EXPORT DIVISION

The primary function of the Export Division of the Foreign Trade Service is to promote export trade. The Division is, therefore, prepared to advise Canadian Exporters on almost any phase of their export activities, such as trade procedure, potential markets and the selection of agents.

Through the officers of the Commodities Branch, the Division keeps the Canadian Trade Commissioners abroad informed of the supply position in Canada, and handles trade inquiries received from abroad.

An Exporters' Directory, provides trade commissioners with up-to-date information on the names and products of firms interested in export trade. All Canadian firms interested in exporting should be listed in this Directory. Application forms may be obtained from the Exporters' and Importers' Directory Section, Department of Trade and Commerce.

The Export Division also administers the United Kingdom Token Shipment Scheme and the British West Indies Trade Liberalization Plan, for which details may be obtained from the Director of the Export Division.

IMPORT DIVISION

The Import Division of the Foreign Trade Service has the primary purpose of assisting the Canadian importer in his capacity either as a broker, wholesaler, manufacturer or agent. Further basic objectives include the fostering, wherever possible, of direct trading with sources of supply for low-cost raw materials and food products, semi-processed materials and manufactured goods, and also of protecting Canadian interests in foreign supplies.

The Division maintains a confidential Directory of Importers and of overseas suppliers, cross indexed and classified by commodities of trade. All Canadian importers are invited to register their interests with this Division in order that Trade Commissioners in the field may be in a position to serve them. Application forms can be obtained from the Exporters' and Importers' Directory Section, Department of Trade and Commerce.

A further purpose of the Division is to obtain recognition abroad for Canada as an import market for raw materials, for consumers' goods and for re-export goods and materials, and to obtain low-cost supplies for industry. In this respect the Division is equipped to study all phases of import requirements governing the demand and supply situations, prices, shipping services, financial services, trade connections, trade practices, etc.

Another field for investigation to which the attention of the Division is directed is a comparison of the Canadian market, and the trade facilities which serve it and the foreign exporter, with facilities and conditions in markets elsewhere. Wherever possible an effort will be made to obviate exceptional difficulties which foreign exporters may experience in their direct approach to the Canadian market due to its peculiarities. For this purpose Trade Commissioners will be supplied with all relevant marketing data to facilitate the movement of goods to Canada in compliance with Canadian regulations as to invoicing, packaging and general handling, and thus protect the interests of the Canadian importer.

ECONOMICS DIVISION

The Economics Division is responsible for economic surveys and analyses rendered necessary from time to time by changes in the character of the Canadian economy.

The general economic situation and the outlook for a year or so ahead are kept under review, and reports on the subject are prepared for government use. In statements on the general outlook, an attempt is made to appraise the principal forces operating in the economy and to interpret their probable effect on economic activity, both nation-wide and by regions, in the period ahead. All major aspects of the economic situation are considered, including foreign trade, government operations, investment, consumption, production, prices, incomes and employment.

Industrial analyses, involving current and forward-looking appraisals of the demand and supply situation in selected industries, are made by this Division. Economic aspects of industries covered include production, exports, imports, sales, inventories, employment, capacity, investment, costs and prices. Background material is obtained for studies of the past, current and future industrial capacity of Canada, as related to the possible developments and demands over periods of from five to ten years.

National investment forecasts as well as appraisals of the building material outlook are prepared in conjunction with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the results of which are tabled in Parliament for the information of all concerned. The situation is kept under review, and any revisions of the preliminary estimate are released to the public.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE RELATIONS DIVISION

The International Trade Relations Division carries on a variety of research activities and conducts investigations on many aspects of commercial policy with a view to trade expansion, the renewal and appropriate revision of trade agreements, and the preparation of data for tariff negotiations with other countries. Background material on economic conditions in foreign countries is also prepared for use at international conferences and for other special purposes. Study is made from time to time of the effects on the Canadian economy of current international developments.

The Foreign Tariffs Section of the Division aids in the promotion of export trade by publishing and furnishing information on request to Canadian exporters and other Departments of the Government with regard to foreign tariffs, documentation, export and import regulations and controls, marking regulations, and miscellaneous regulations affecting the importation of Canadian products into Commonwealth and other foreign countries.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT DIVISION

The objectives of the Industrial Development Division are to work closely with provincial, municipal, and other agencies in connection with the establishment of new industries, and the development of new products, especially those suitable for export markets.

INFORMATION DIVISION

The objectives of the Information Division are:

(a) To acquaint Canadian businessmen in particular and the public generally with the facilities offered by the Department of Trade and Commerce.

(b) To stimulate in Canada an appreciation of the importance of export and import trade to the Canadian economy and to cultivate an informed approach to foreign trade dealings.

(c) To encourage foreign businessmen to look to Canada as a source of supply and as a market, and to direct their attention to the services offered by the Canadian Government to facilitate dealings with Canada.

The work of the Division is organized into three sections: the first handles the preparation of publications (including "FOREIGN TRADE" and "COMMERCE EXTERIEUR"), containing reports on market and economic conditions in other countries, trade inquiries, and similar commercial intelligence for Canadian businessmen; the second, a News Section, maintains a flow of information, news and articles suitable for publication in the daily and periodical press of Canada and other countries; and the third carries out advertising campaigns at home and abroad to support the promotion of Canada's foreign trade.

Data for Exporters Compiled

Information, of particular interest to Canadian exporters, concerning shipping documents and customs regulations of foreign countries, is being compiled by the International Trade Relations Division. Countries concerning which such information is now available in a revised form are: Austria, Belgium, Belgian Congo, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Egypt, Finland, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Iceland, Israel, Italy, Mexico, Netherlands, Netherlands Antilles, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Surinam (Netherlands Guiana), Sweden, Switzerland and Venezuela. Data on other countries will be made available from time to time.

Trade Bulletins and Reports

Detailed information concerning Canadian foreign trade is compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, to which application should be made. This is issued on an annual, quarterly and monthly basis. The Dominion Statistician is also responsible for compilation of the Canada Year Book, the Canada Handbook and a number of reports on specific commodities.

ASSOCIATED AGENCIES AND SERVICES

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT EXHIBITION COMMISSION

Under Order-in-Council P.C. 4171 the Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, a division of the Department of Trade and Commerce, is charged with the responsibility for the organization and administration of all Canadian exhibits in international exhibitions, trade fairs, etc. in which the Canadian Government decides to participate, as a result of invitations received from abroad. It is also responsible for the organization of the Canadian International Trade Fair.

The Commission is also charged with the responsibility of securing the co-operation of Canadian manufacturers and producers and assisting them in exhibitions abroad.

The Commission is required to work out methods by which practical assistance and advice can be extended to Canadian manufacturers and producers to increase the sale of their goods in countries abroad through the medium of exhibitions of various kinds. In addition, the Commission endeavours to advise exhibitors and their agents on the best means of displaying Canadian products under favourable conditions by other methods than participation in exhibitions, such as shop windows, displays, trade fairs, etc.

The Canadian Government Exhibition Commission maintains an office and plant at 479 Bank Street, Ottawa, as well as a small branch in the United Kingdom with Head Office at Canada House, and warehouse facilities at Blackburn Road, in London.

Communications concerning exhibits and exhibitions should be addressed to the Director, Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, 479 Bank Street, Ottawa.

EXPORT CREDITS INSURANCE CORPORATION

Administered by a board of directors, including the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Governor of the Bank of Canada, the Corporation insures exporters against credit losses involved in the export or an agreement for the export of goods. Policies are issued on a yearly basis, covering exporters' sales to all countries and protecting them against the main risks of loss involved in foreign trade. The main risks covered by Export Credits Insurance Policies include: insolvency or protracted default on the part of the buyer; exchange restrictions in the buyer's country preventing the transfer of funds to Canada; cancellation or non-renewal of an import licence or the imposition of restrictions on the import of goods not previously subject to restrictions; the occurrence of war between the buyer's country and Canada, or of war, revolution, etc. in the buyer's country; and additional transport or insurance charges occasioned by interruption or diversion of voyage outside Canada or the continental United States of America.

The insurance is available under two main classifications: (i) General Commodities, (ii) Capital Goods. Coverage for General Commodities can be procured by exporters under two types of Policies: (i) the Contracts Policy, which insures an Exporter against loss from the time he books the order until payment is received; or (ii) the Shipments Policy, obtainable at lower rates of premium, and which covers the exporter from the time of shipment until payment is received. Insurance of Capital Goods offers protection to exporters of such commodities as plant equipment, heavy machinery, etc. which are subject to extended credit of longer periods than is customary for General Commodities. Special Policies are issued for transactions involving Capital Goods, but the general terms and conditions are the same as those applicable to Policies for General Commodities.

The Corporation insures exporters under all Policies up to 85 p.c. of the contract price, or gross invoice value of shipments. This co-insurance plan also operates in the distribution of recoveries obtained after payment of a loss, and these recoveries are shared by the Corporation and the exporter in the proportions of 85 and 15 respectively.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL BOARD

(As of January 1st, 1951)

General

Established originally by Order-in-Council of September 15, 1939, under the authority of the War Measures Act, the Foreign Exchange Control Board continues to function by virtue of the Foreign Exchange Control Act which came into force on January 1st, 1947. This Act makes statutory provision for foreign exchange control in order to protect and control the value of the Canadian monetary unit in relation to foreign currencies and to ensure that Canada's resources in foreign exchange are available to finance trade and other current transactions with foreign countries. The Board is responsible to the Minister of Finance.

Sterling Transactions

Under United Kingdom exchange control regulations, sterling normally may be transferred to Canada only from sterling area countries and may be transferred from Canada only to such countries.

"Sterling area countries" are the United Kingdom, any Dominion or other part of His Majesty's Dominions (except Canada) and any British mandated territory, protectorate or protected state, Burma, Iraq, Iceland, Ireland and Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

Exports

1. General

The procedure described in this Article is designed primarily to ensure that when goods are exported from Canada, payment of their value is received by the exporter in an appropriate currency and, in the case of foreign exchange, is sold to an authorized dealer and thereby made available to the Board.

2. Currency of Payment for Exports

(a) In general, a resident of Canada who sells goods which have been or are to be exported from Canada is required to obtain payment of the fair value within six months of shipment in an appropriate currency as indicated below:

(i) Exports to Sterling Area Countries

(1) Sterling;

(2) Canadian dollars paid from a bank account in Canada of a resident of (including a bank in) a sterling area country or a special arrangement country referred to in (ii) below; or

(3) United States dollars.

"Sterling area countries" are as listed above.

(ii) Exports to Special Arrangement Countries

(1) United States dollars; or

(2) Canadian dollars paid from a bank account in Canada of a resident of (including a bank in) a special arrangement or sterling area country.

"Special arrangement countries" are Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Austria, Belgium, Belgian Congo, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, France and the French Empire (except French Somali Coast), Israel, Italy, Jordan, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Indonesia, Netherlands Antilles and Surinam, Norway, Ruanda-Urundi, and Sweden.

(iii) Exports to United States Dollar Area Countries:

United States dollars.

"United States dollar area countries" are all those other than sterling area and special arrangement countries.

(b) Exporters should note that special authority from the Foreign Exchange Control Board is necessary before U.S. dollars may be obtained or used, or Canadian dollars tranferred to a resident of a United States dollar area country, to pay for goods which have been or are to be imported for re-export to a sterling area or special arrangement country unless

(1) the goods have been or are to be processed in Canada; or

(2) payment for the export has been or is to be received by the Canadian exporter in U.S. dollars.

3. Export Procedure—Except in those cases where a Customs Export Entry is ordinarily not required (e.g. gifts up to $25 in value, other shipments up to $5 in value, travellers' baggage and effects, etc.) combined Customs Export Entry and F.E.C.B. Form B13-B is to be prepared by the exporter and delivered to the Collector of Customs & Excise at the Port of Exit of the goods. The exporter should hand Form B13-B to the carrier accepting the goods for export for forwarding to the Collector of Customs and Excise. Where the terms of payment are in accordance with the Foreign Exchange Control Act and Regulations, the Collector approves the Form B13-B on behalf of the Board and sends a copy of the form to the exporter's bank. The prior approval of Form B13-B by the Board or an authorized dealer is required for exports for which no settlement has been or will be made except in the cases specified in Section 36 of the Regulations.

4. Proceeds of Exports—A resident of Canada who has or receives payment of any U.S. dollars, sterling or other foreign exchange is required to offer it for sale to his bank. F.E.C.B. Form C, copies of which are available at banks, is to be completed covering a sale to a bank of exchange arising from the sale of goods which have been or are to be exported where the amount is more than $100 U.S. or its equivalent in other foreign currencies. This form is then "matched" by the bank with the copy of Form B. 13-B covering the export, which the bank has received or will receive from Customs. When an exporter receives payment for an export to a sterling area or special arrangement country in Canadian dollars, the exporter's bank is notified by the bank having the account from which the payment was made, and a similar "matching" procedure is followed.

5. BD and NS Permit Holders—The procedure outlined in paragraphs 3 and 4 above is varied in the case of exporters who carry out their transactions under BD and NS permits issued by the Board.

Imports

1. General

The procedure described in this article is designed primarily to ensure that when payments are made to non-residents, either in foreign exchange or Canadian dollars, for the purchase of goods, goods to the value of the payments are in fact brought into Canada.

2. Currency of Payment for Imports

(a) In general, a resident of Canada who buys goods which have been or are to be imported legally into Canada within ninety days may make payment for the fair value of the goods in appropriate currency as indicated below:

(i) Imports from sterling area countries:
  (1) Sterling paid to a resident of a sterling area country; or
  (2) Canadian dollars paid to a resident of a sterling area country or a special arrangement country referred to in (ii) below.
  For the list of sterling area countries, see "Sterling Transactions" above.

(ii) Imports from special arrangement countries:
  (1) Canadian dollars paid to a resident of a special arrangement or sterling area country; or
  (2) United States dollars.

"Special arrangement countries" are Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Austria, Belgium, Belgian Congo, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, France and the French Empire (except French Somali Coast), Israel, Italy, Jordan, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Indonesia, Netherlands Antilles and Surinam, Norway, Ruanda-Urundi, and Sweden.

(iii) Imports from United States dollar area countries:
  (1) United States dollars; or
  (2) Canadian dollars.
  "United States dollar area countries" are all those other than sterling area and special arrangement countries.

(b) Special authority from the Foreign Exchange Control Board is necessary before an importer may obtain or use U.S. dollars, or transfer Canadian dollars to a resident of a United States dollar area country to pay for goods which have been or are to be exported to a sterling area or special arrangement country unless
(i) the goods have been or are to be processed in Canada; or
(ii) payment for the export has been or is to be received by the Canadian exporter in U.S. dollars.

3. Import Procedure—

(a) Where Customs Import Entry for goods imported into Canada is made on Customs Form B.1, B.5 or B.11, an importer is required to submit to Customs F.E.C.B. Form E. Form E is designed to be made out as one of the set of Customs forms. When import entry is passed, Customs approves the related Form E and returns it to the importer as evidence for the importer to produce to his bank that goods to the value stated have been imported. Supplies of Form E are available at Customs Offices.

(b) Where Customs Import Entry is made otherwise than on Customs Form B.1, B.5 or B.11—usually imports valued at less than $100—the importer is required to obtain from Customs, in place of Form E, a certified copy of the Customs form or invoice used in clearing the goods through Customs.

4. Payment Procedure—A resident of Canada desiring to obtain U.S. Dollars, sterling or other foreign exchange, or to pay Canadian dollars to a non-resident in settlement for imports is required to apply to his bank for a permit. The application is to be made on F.E.C.B. Form F or G, respectively (unless the amount is less than $100 U.S. or its equivalent) and is to be supported by the Form E covering the importation of the goods or, where Form E was not required, the Customs document referred to in para. 3(b). Where application for foreign exchange or to pay Canadian dollars is made before the goods are imported, Form E is to be surrendered to the bank, or the other Customs documents are to be exhibited to it, as soon as importation is made. The bank "matches" Forms F or G covering payments for imports with Forms E or other Customs documents evidencing the importation of the goods.

In the latest printing of Form E, provision is made whereby an application to a bank for foreign exchange to settle in full for goods already imported may be made on the back of the Form E itself. Where this is done, an application on Form F is not necessary.

5. Permit Holders—The procedure outlined in paras. 3(b) and 4 above is varied in the case of importers who carry out their transactions under BD or NS permits issued by the Board.

EXPORT METHODS, FINANCING AND PRICE QUOTATIONS

FIVE METHODS OF DOING EXPORT BUSINESS

On the following pages will be found articles by experienced Canadian exporters on methods of conducting export business. These articles do not include all known methods, but they do cover the majority of recognized methods that so far have proved successful in Canada. Many firms operate combinations of these methods, depending on the types of markets to which they are selling. Each method should be considered in the light of the characteristics of one's own business and of the possible proportions to which the export side of it may grow.

The five methods range from the comparatively simple task of handling a highly specialized line by mail and the co-operation of Trade Commissioners to the handling of a very wide range of articles all used in the same trade by means of the establishment of wholesale branches of the Canadian house abroad.

Each method has its dangers and difficulties as well as advantages, and each is specially suited to certain general classes of business or types of distribution in export markets. No matter what method is adopted there is little doubt that a personal investigation of overseas markets by a principal or chief executive of the Canadian firm is the best preliminary in the development of successful export business. The initial costs of an investigation of this type may seem high at the time, but in most cases expenditures of this kind have proved to be a successful investment.

Method No. 1

Development of an Export Trade Through Branches in Other Countries Owned by the Parent Exporting Manufacturer in Canada

(Suitable for companies with a diversified product, most or all of which can find extensive export markets subjected to world-wide competition.)

The manufacturer who is endeavouring to build up an export trade to provide an increased and permanent outlet for his products and not simply looking for a channel through which to dispose of some surplus stock provided for domestic trade or to take up some plant capacity temporarily available should consider carefully the advisability of doing so through his own branches abroad, provided, of course, that his line is of a nature to warrant this consideration·

In contemplating the organization of a branch in a foreign country a great many conditions require to be taken into consideration. The territory should therefore be carefully surveyed to ascertain not only the present demand for his product but the possibility of increase in this demand for the future and how this increase is to come about. The state of the local industry and the competition therefrom, as well as competition from other sources requires to be looked into; also the possibility of securing a sufficient number of dealers of a satisfactory type to handle the lines; the general financial standing of these dealers and their attitude toward meeting obligations when due. Study should also be made of local preferences and prejudices, as it is surprising the influence these have in some parts of the world. Customs Tariffs and the possibility of revisions thereto; location for branch headquarters at a point where there are ample facilities at reasonable cost for the reception and storage of bulk stocks, as well as convenient and adequate transportation service for distribution, also require to be looked into. These, and a number of other matters which will suggest themselves, should be carefully investigated in order to give the question intelligent consideration and arrive at a decision.

If, after investigation, the manufacturer is satisfied that a sufficient demand for his product exists in a certain country and is also satisfied that conditions generally would warrant consideration being given to the establishing of a branch selling organization there, then the advantages and disadvantages of the branch system will require to be carefully weighed.

Marketing through a branch selling organization presents several advantages:

1.—The entire effort of the selling organization is concentrated on the one line and there are therefore no diverting interests as is frequently the case where a jobbing house handles a large range of goods. The manufacturer's products under the branch system cannot at any time be treated as a side line to be ignored when goods returning a greater margin of profit can be sold. Travellers and salesmen are not tempted to follow the line of least resistance as is possible where they have optional lines to offer to a dealer.

2.—If a line is one requiring service of any kind, the manufacturer can ensure his own and his customers' interests being properly cared for by providing a service staff having a thorough and expert knowledge of his goods, and it is recognized that an efficient service, where required, brings increased trade.

3.—A branch selling organization enables a manufacturer to keep more closely in touch with the requirements of the market and therefore be in a position to meet, or even anticipate, changing demands on the part of the purchasing public.

4.—In operating through a branch selling organization, the manufacturer can plan and carry on an advertising and selling campaign best suited to the sale of his lines and is free to take such action as he may consider necessary to meet any unusual conditions which may arise from time to time without having to depend upon or to consider first the interests of the importing jobber.

5.—From the standpoint of financial risk, instead of having one or two large accounts, the manufacturer will have a number of smaller accounts scattered throughout the country. In the opinion of many, a number of smaller accounts is an advantage as, after all, there is something to be said in favour of not putting the eggs all in one basket.

6.—It is reasonable to expect that the expense involved in the operating of a branch selling organization could be met by the additional margin obtained through selling direct to the dealers instead of to a large importing jobber. Even if the Branch could not do better than break even on its operations, the manufacturer would still have the advantage of his manufacturing profit on a larger volume.

7.—An esprit de corps can be developed which is a valuable asset in any selling organization.

There are, of course, some disadvantages, for instance:

1.—During a seasonal slackness or a period of temporary depression, when the demand for the manufacturer's particular product may drop off, the selling organization is handicapped through not having other lines with which to fill in.

2.—The necessity of carrying stocks which, in dealing with a large importing jobber, would very likely have been sold outright. This carrying of stocks also involves the making of provision against obsolescence.

3.—The handling and following up of numerous smaller accounts.

4.—A somewhat increased overhead at headquarters because of the necessity for executive supervision.

There are no doubt other disadvantages, some more applicable to one line than to another; however, the advantages of operating through a branch selling organization would appear to much more than offset the disadvantages, assuming, of course, that the manufacturer's line is sufficiently large and varied, the demand sufficient, and conditions generally favourable to operating in this way.

Except for the Chief Executive and perhaps one or two key men, an overseas branch should be staffed by men who speak the language of the country and who have an intimate knowledge of the country, its requirements, the people and their customs. The Branch Manager, or Chief Executive, should be one who is thoroughly familiar with the Company's products and policies and one who possesses good sound judgment. Located as he usually is, thousands of miles away from headquarters, he is frequently called upon to deal with important problems requiring prompt attention which cannot be conveniently or adequately discussed with his Head Office by telegraph or even by telephone, which is now available.

Several Canadian companies are already operating through branch houses abroad. No doubt any of them would be willing to assist other manufacturers contemplating operating in the same way by supplying whatever information they may have available.

Method No. 2

Development of Export Trade Through Resident Agents or Representatives Visited at Intervals by Executive of Canadian Exporting Manufacturer

(An excellent method that has worked out successfully in many lines as it provides for gradual growth and expansion, coupled with establishment of close personal relations with representatives and informing travel by export executive and an interchange of visits to the plant by representatives. This should be read in close conjunction with Method No. 3, with which it is closely allied.)

From a sales standpoint there are many advantages in having a resident agent, particularly if it is possible to have him visit the plant, get thoroughly acquainted with the product by closely following up through all stages of manufacture, meet the personnel of the Company, familiarize himself with the method of packing and general handling of export shipments.

A few of these advantages are as follows:

(1) A resident agent can approach customers with more confidence in the product as he is able to converse freely in the language of the country. From personal experience in the Far East and Continent of Europe, have found in many cases difficulty in getting anywhere on account of not being able to speak the language.

(2) A resident agent can keep principals posted on competitive lines and demands for necessary improvements to meet market conditions.

(3) Is in the position to revise and add to mailing lists of already established and prospective customers.

(4) Being in close touch with the financial standing of customers is able to take action on principal's behalf in the event of collection difficulties. In this connection might mention we give our resident agents authority to act on our behalf. If draft is refused, instead of costly cables and delays, it is immediately referred to the resident agent for further instructions.

(5) Is able to transfer shipments in event of disputes. In one or two cases, after shipment had left Canada, it was necessary to hold up on account of credit, which was taken care of by cable and turned over to resident agent for disposal elsewhere.

(6) Is in the position to investigate orders or enquiries which may be received by principals direct.

The advantages of visiting resident agents, as the writer sees them, are many; preferably the President, Vice-President, General Manager, or Sales Manager, as in most cases it is best to make a decision on the spot so to speak. Naturally it is better that this executive should be in close touch with the Export Department.

Visits of this kind bring the line up to date, establish confidence between agents and principals, in addition to getting first hand information as to the class of house from which orders are being received.

Might I repeat again it is very desirable if possible, to have the agent visit the factory. The executive can very often obtain information regarding the sale of competitive lines which the agent does not always seem able to obtain. Manufacturing information can very often be picked up. A general size-up of the agent's ability and his connections can be intelligently made. How often have we sized up a man by correspondence and on making his acquaintance found a totally different person than we had pictured.

In some cases the resident agent is the most economical way of conducting export business, providing, of course, you have a real live agent. There is not any definite rule that I know of to select agents or representatives. I recall one time in Australia, of interviewing a resident agent who was not interested, but later on was approached by the same firm's branch in another city, by one of their Directors who saw possibilities in our line. The firm in question turned out to be live representatives.

There seems to be some element of luck in selecting agents or representatives. In order to avoid liability it might be better to classify as resident representatives not resident agents.

Method No. 3

Development of Export Trade Through Resident Agents Abroad With No Personal Visits by a Representative of the Canadian Exporting Manufacturer

(A very large number of Canadian manufacturers use this method, gradually moving towards Method No. 2, which supplements and strengthens it.)

The policy of appointing a resident Agent abroad without any personal supervision from a representative is one which is attended with many risks and much dissatisfaction unless preceded beforehand by a very careful investigation into:

(1) The standing of the individual or Company in the business community.

(2) His or their financial responsibility.

(3) Integrity.

(4) Business capabilities.

(5) Number and kind of other lines carried.

Too often the manufacturer looking for export business will accept the first application received for an agency arrangement, without making the ordinary investigations which would be made upon receipt of a similar application on the domestic market. Even at the present time applications are constantly being received by exporters from many bright and well-intentioned people who, after seeing or hearing of a new line, think they can sell it against old and established importing agencies who have probably controlled their market on this line for a great many years and who if approached by some obscure individual with a competitive line would give it scant consideration. It is, therefore, vitally necessary that the business standing of an individual or company should be known, in order for your product to receive fair and impartial consideration.

This will also protect the intending exporter from the unscrupulous type of individual who sends in his application under an assumed company name, on very elaborately got up business note paper, with the intention of obtaining a good set of samples for nothing.

What emphasis should be placed on financial responsibility will depend entirely on whether the agent is going to act on a purely commission basis, merely soliciting orders and passing them on to the manufacturer for shipping and financing, or to buy direct himself and in turn resell to the trade.

The integrity of an agent should be unquestionable, because any suspicion of sharp practices would immediately reflect on the company appointing the agent, and result in a definite restriction and loss of trade.

The business capability of the proposed agent should also be scrutinized; there should be a reputation for being thoroughly acquainted with all lines carried, ability to promote sales, judicious in the selection of customers and the granting of credit risks. Much profitable export business can easily be turned into serious and heavy losses unless the latter requirement is carefully followed.

Then it is very essential to know the number and kind of other lines carried, to ascertain if they are in any way complementary or competitive. It may be that the applicant is already carrying too many lines and it has been found in practice that there is a tendency to push only those lines easy to sell, or giving the greatest remuneration. Even if the agent is thoroughly reliable, it is difficult to become thoroughly acquainted with every item carried, with the result that the added new lines may suffer in comparison with the older ones. Often an agent will undertake to carry a competitive line just to prevent some other agent more favourably placed from obtaining it, sending in just sufficient orders to create the impression that an effort is being made to place the line on the market, but at the same time actually throttling its development.

There is no difficulty in obtaining resident agents overseas as an advertisement in any export Journal will bring a host of applicants, the majority of whom will guarantee to handle the line offered in the most efficient manner. The problem to solve is to be able to pick out from the replies received the one who will handle your line most successfully.

A much safer way is to entrust your agent problem to the Canadian Trade Commissioners, seeking their advice after giving them full information about your product.

It is not to be suggested that the right person or company will always be selected and in order to guard against errors of judgment and to protect them as far as possible, it would be advisable to limit the contract of any new agent appointed to one or two years, during which time you will have ample opportunity to check up and study the results obtained. If not satisfactory, the contract can then be broken off at the end of the stipulated period.

From the above it is very obvious that only the best type of individual or company should be chosen as your representative and the success or failure to open up an export market will depend very materially upon this.

The decision to appoint an individual or a company will depend to a great extent on the nature of the commodity to be exported, the distribution desired, and the extent of the market. In some countries it may be advisable to confine your agency to a large company who are in touch with all wholesale outlets, and while this may restrict the distribution, it has this compensation that credit risk is practically reduced to a minimum, and in some cases goods are paid for immediately upon receipt at the usual cash terms. Should it be the policy of the exporter to place his goods through as many outlets as possible, then the individual agent provides the best possible medium because he buys nothing for himself but simply solicits orders for the manufacturer and the greatest advantage lies in the ability of such a man to get business for his principals, from all possible buyers in his field. Another added advantage is that being constantly on the ground, he is able to take immediate advantage of every opportunity the moment it arises, and to adjust troubles and complaints that are almost certain to arise in the conduct of any business, whether it is foreign or domestic. Furthermore, there is bound to arise the question of extended and disputed drafts and he can safeguard payments and collections for his principals.

The agent's duties are not confined only to the securing of orders and some of his time will have to be spent in adjusting difficulties as they arise, also explaining away injudicious letters from the home office, for oftentimes a good connection is lost through a lack of tact and courtesy on the part of the sender.

The chief disadvantage in appointing an agent without personal supervision lies in the almost impossibility of making him or them acquainted with changes in business policy by means of a letter, no matter how well constructed it may be. It is then that close personal contact can explain away in a few minutes any misgivings held, what otherwise may take several letters spread over a considerable period. When export business is being operated at little or no profit it is difficult to explain by letter why an advertising allowance cannot be made or unreasonable claims accepted.

In summing up, it can safely be said that satisfactory business can be obtained by this method, although of course it will always lack that undefinable something which always comes with personal contact.

Method No. 4

The Development of Export Trade Through Export Merchants, Export Buying Houses or Indent Houses

(This method or really two methods in one, with many similar characteristics, offers a wide field for certain varieties of products but if used solely should be chosen with the utmost discretion. The Indent House Method can fit in by consent with Methods two and three and can be attempted simultaneously.

Co-operation with reliable indent houses in suitable cases provides a means of training members of manufacturers' staffs in export technique and provides specialized selling and personal contacts in export markets while retaining the identity of manufacturers' goods through to the customer.

In the "Export Merchants" discussion prospective exporters would do well to ponder seriously over the disadvantages mentioned.)

There are many manufacturers in Great Britain who have been able to secure a splendid volume of business overseas without ever having had even an export department of their own. They have secured this business through London houses operating as Export Merchants or through London Indent firms.

EXPORT MERCHANTS operate really as Export Wholesale Houses. They make an arrangement with a Manufacturer by which they will have the control of anything he makes that may be shipped overseas. If the Manufacturer receives an enquiry from abroad, he refers it to this Export Merchant. The Merchant buys for cash from the Manufacturer and turns around and quotes the merchandise to firms overseas at a price that will give him a profit. He takes all the credit responsibility and even arranges for proper distribution in any market where there would seem to be a demand for this particular product. He has Representatives who travel to different countries in the world and in this way keeps in touch with his connections abroad.

There are many advantages to the Manufacturer from handling his export business in this manner:

1. It costs him nothing to sell his goods. He may at times find it necessary to supply something in the way of samples but this is likely to be a small matter and if it really amounts to something, he can usually arrange to supply the samples at regular prices, less a sample discount.

2. He sells for cash and has no credit risk. Manufacturers are often concerned and rightly so, about the credit standing of firms overseas who may wish to buy their goods. Selling to the Export Merchant, he gets his money even sooner than for domestic sales.

3. He avoids the necessity of having an export department in his business. The Export Merchant looks after all details of shipping, insurance and invoicing and all the Manufacturer has to do is to ship his goods to Seaboard as directed and submit ordinary domestic invoices. The overseas correspondence is conducted by the Export Merchant, who is competent to look after this even if it be in a foreign language.

4. He increases the volume of business passing through his plant and in this way lowers his unit cost of production. This enables him to compete more successfully in his own market.

The disadvantages of this method are not great. There are one or two features that should be considered:

1. He will probably not know his customers overseas and if for any reason, the Export Merchant breaks his connection, he may lose his overseas business. However, the Export Merchant is not likely to do this so long as he gets good treatment from the Manufacturer. It costs money to develop a market and no one wishes to have to do it with a new product if he already has one established.

2. He will need to make sure that the Export Merchant has a distinct possibility to get business for it has been known to happen that representation of a line has been gotten to keep it off the market. For that reason, it should only be given for an initial period of not too long so that if business does not result, he can take other means to get it.

INDENT FIRMS are really Buying Houses or Purchasing Houses in one country for firms located in other countries overseas. Many overseas firms prefer to have all their business attended to by their own buying offices located in centres of countries where manufacturing industries are plentiful. Such firms as these are often a good means of getting manufactured goods introduced to their overseas clients.

1. They usually buy for first class firms only.
2. They pay cash for all purchases.
3. They attend to all details of shipping, insurance, invoicing and correspondence.

On the other hand:

1. They take no responsibility for sales at all but simply place orders on definite instructions received from their clients.

2. They buy only for their own clients and it may be possible there are other firms in overseas countries who might be interested in the goods. The indent houses will not offer the goods for sale to other than their own clients. Their distribution therefore is limited unless a Manufacturer is dealing with a number of Indent Houses operating in the same overseas markets.

The number of Export Merchants and Indent Firms in Canada has been limited, due probably to the fact that it is only comparatively recently that Canadian Manufactured goods have been shipped in volume and variety to overseas markets. It is only reasonable to expect that their numbers will increase and in this way, there will be offered to Canadian Manufacturers a method of securing export business that is sound, economical and safe.

Method No. 5

Development of Export Trade Direct by Mail

(This method though useful for highly specialized products marketed to well-rated and substantial customers is fraught with many dangers unless subjected to the closest analysis. It is true it grows gradually to the point of becoming exactly like Method No. 3, but the initial stages of attempting to do business direct by mail, without previous intense and discriminating selection of risks, are full of pitfalls and form a pretext for the propagation of many useless schemes.)

Many Canadian industries, organized primarily to supply their domestic market, do not have the large organization nor the facilities necessary to maintain branches or even direct agents handling only their products in foreign markets.

In these days of specialization, the products of many plants must sometimes be sold in the export markets by commission agents handling kindred lines in order to spread the selling expense over sufficient volume to make export sales profitable. In fact, modern practice has resulted in many plants making only one particular line of goods often of interest only to some one trade or profession. Often this means a field so restricted it does not pay the producer to seek export business through ordinary channels. However, such specialized lines usually have the advantage of being of special interest and usefulness to certain definitely known trades or professions. Lists of prospects for such lines can be obtained and trade solicited in foreign, almost as easily as in the domestic market. It is possible in this way to eliminate expensive selling costs and create a demand for such goods as will permit some responsible agent to stock or supply them profitably.

Of course, wherever this is practical, a selling agent right on the ground is always much better and more satisfactory. A good agent can create connections not obtainable by mail and can always learn why prospects are not interested or correct any misunderstanding which no amount of correspondence might bring out. It is no different in foreign markets than at home. Every purchaser takes the easiest way and will usually pay more to be relieved of all details of which he knows little or nothing.

The local agent has special advantages over direct-by-mail solicitation in countries using other than the English language. A good agent will speak fluently the one or more languages used and can usually translate special instructions into English for the manufacturer, thus overcoming many chances of misinterpretation.

Even if carefully written and checked over, transcriptions from English to other languages are sometimes misleading. Often the correct version does not convey the idea or thought as well as if the letter were written in the dialect peculiar to the country in which the prospect resides.

Particularly in financial matters, the agent can secure reports, approach only good accounts and help with collections when necessary.

But in spite of all these drawbacks it is possible to do a good and profitable export business direct by mail with lines which could in no other way be exported to advantage. Goods of exceptional interest and usefulness to some definitely known trade or profession—possibly not ordinarily obtainable except on special order or which must be delivered in fresh condition. Especially such goods as can be sent by Parcel Post.

The first step is to secure an agent to handle deliveries and lists of interested users. This can usually be done with the aid of the Canadian Trade Commissioner in the market to be tried.

The Commissioner should be given full particulars of the product—samples where possible—and suggestions as to the class of trade likely to be interested. He will suggest an agent and the best source for obtaining lists of prospects. Usually he can secure good lists for the exporter. As an official Canadian representative, the Trade Commissioner often has access to records and information not ordinarily obtainable. In fact, he can usually give better advice and suggestions about the market he represents than could be obtained by months of direct investigation. It is his duty to assist in the sale of any Canadian product in his market. No better corps of expert salesmen could be had at any price than is available to every Canadian exporter.

Having arranged for handling deliveries and secured a list of prospects, a carefully prepared campaign for that particular market should be worked out. Letters should always be in the language of that market. When other than English, such letters should be very carefully translated. If time permits, it is always best to submit the suggested series of letters to the Trade Commissioner for O.K. Translations are often much clearer and get better results if in the particular style or dialect in use in the prospect's country.

Full and complete description—good illustrations, showing the goods and their uses—are essential to best results. Even if it does not pay to translate catalogues or circulars, sufficient explanation should be given in the letters to make their advantages and uses clear to the prospect.

Arrangements with the agent should be made to either stock or obtain goods promptly a demand has been created so as not to lose the benefit of direct solicitation. With the help of the Trade Commissioner, a good agent should be arranged for who will supply the demand. With reasonable prospects the agent can be induced to purchase some stock or if sent on consignment to guarantee payment as the goods are sold. Once the agent is convinced there is a profitable demand he will undertake selling on his own account.

There is no doubt that many Canadian products could be exported in this way if reasonable time and care were given all the necessary details. Export markets are particularly desirable to most Canadian manufacturers to permit increased volume production—not always possible in a comparatively restricted home market. Even if such exports are sold close to actual costs, they are a great advantage in absorbing overhead costs and creating steady employment of sometimes highly trained staffs.

One thing should be kept in mind always—for the good of all Canadian exporters. Once foreign trade has been solicited, be prepared to make prompt deliveries of thoroughly dependable goods offering good value. A manufacturer who solicits foreign business only while his trade is slack in Canada and fails to give good service on foreign business during rush times in domestic trade is creating a very bad opinion in foreign markets, not only of his own concern but on all his fellow exporters as well.

Let every Canadian exporter maintain the good reputation created by our Trade Commissioners and by our most successful exporters by good service, reliable goods and fair dealing.

FINANCING CANADIAN EXPORT TRADE

The following statement, kindly prepared by C. K. Highmoor, Supervisor, Foreign Department, The Canadian Bank of Commerce, Head Office, Toronto, as of 1st January, 1951, outlines the services available through Canadian banks in connection with export business.

Every experienced Canadian exporter will agree that the sale of Canadian goods or services to a country outside Canada is not completed satisfactorily until the full amount of the anticipated proceeds have been placed at his disposal in Canada and in such form that without any encumbrance they can be used in Canada to pay for the wages, materials and other expenses which went into the creation of the goods or services sold. It takes time, effort and materials to produce goods which will compete in other lands with the products of other countries and no matter what care is taken in the preparation of the goods, in their prompt and safe delivery, and in following through to see that the goods are satisfactory to the eventual user, the benefit to the producer and to Canada is likely to be lost if similar care is not taken in the manner in which the proceeds are collected from abroad.

All Canadian banks operate Foreign Departments designed to facilitate transactions with other countries, whether these involve payments abroad or collections abroad, and exporters, particularly those expanding their activities into new fields abroad, should avail themselves of the services of their banks in guarding against errors and oversights which can be made in this important matter of obtaining payment in satisfactory form from purchasers of their products, whether in near or distant lands.

PRICE QUOTATIONS

Exporters seeking buyers abroad are free to express their prices in any form or in any currency which they may desire or find convenient, though naturally must take into account also the convenience of the buyer. The currency in which they collect the proceeds, however, is a matter in which they must be guided by the requirements of the Canadian Foreign Exchange Control Board, which has made certain stipulations in that respect, and these are liable to change from time to time.

The present position, under the Foreign Exchange Control Act and Regulations, with regard to payment for exports of goods from Canada is described in the chapter entitled "Foreign Exchange Control Board".

CLARITY OF CONTRACTS

It is most desirable that the contract entered into between seller and buyer shall be clear beyond doubt as to the expense included in the selling price and as to the currency and manner in which the transfer of money from abroad to Canada shall take place. Apart from the sales cost of the goods at the point of production in Canada, there are of course other costs, such as rail and ocean freight, marine and war risk insurance, export licence fees, possible storage, transshipment, inspection, wharfage, forwarding, and other similar costs with which every exporter is familiar, but also financing costs such as collection fees, interest, revenue stamps, and sometimes other costs such as telegraphic fees, protest fees, etc. which can be important and should not be overlooked.

It is possible for many of these to be foreseen, avoided, overcome, or at least provided for, at the time the contract is entered into, or in advance to last over a long period of time in the prospective dealings with an overseas buyer. In these latter respects Canadian banks can be most helpful and should be freely consulted.

METHODS OF PAYMENT

There are a number of methods by which payment can be received for shipments abroad and each has its appropriate place in a given set of circumstances.

The simplest, from the Canadian seller's point of view, is a remittance through banking channels at the time of acceptance of an order, in the appropriate currency, but this is a method which would be considered unreasonable by many buyers under normal conditions and one which few exporters would be able or care to require, particularly from firms of standing who would probably be unwilling to so employ their capital, having in mind that the goods may take some time to be prepared and shipped. Then again, under their own Exchange Control regulations, they may be prohibited from making payment until the goods have either landed in their own countries or at least are afloat.

A variation of this method is by direct remittance in the appropriate currency through banking channels when the goods have arrived, within a stated time thereafter, at time of shipment, or at some period mutually arranged between buyer and seller.

Another method is by drawing a draft on the buyers of the goods or their agents in the country of destination or elsewhere and lodging the draft for collection with a bank in Canada with or without shipping documents attached and either awaiting the returns of the collection by mail, air letter, air mail, or cable, or by borrowing thereagainst in Canada at the time the draft is lodged with the Canadian bank.

Still another method is to call for a Commercial Letter of Credit issued by the buyer's bankers and forwarded by mail to the seller or advised by cable through a bank in Canada.

The latter two methods are discussed more fully below under their respective headings.

FINANCIAL STANDING OF BUYER ABROAD

It is obviously important for the seller of Canadian goods to know something of the standing of buyers abroad not only from the point of view of moral reputation but also from a financial point of view and before considering the completion of any contract with strangers abroad it is desirable that inquiries should be made to that end. The Canadian banks, Government departments, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and other organizations have considerable information on the standing of firms abroad and can always assist in this respect even if inquiries have to be made abroad by mail or by wire. Upon this information depends to no little extent the choice of methods by which payment is to be sought and which in turn requires thought as to the extension of credit which is to be granted. This in turn depends on the seller's own financial ability to wait, the financial ability of the buyer to pay, the custom of the market into which the goods are to proceed, and the Exchange Control regulations both of that market and our own.

COLLECTIONS

Collections can be expressed in any currency but under present conditions are usually expressed in the currency agreed upon between buyer and seller according to his contract and as required under Control Board regulations. They can call for payment on demand, at sight, or at an appropriate term, such as 30 days sight, 60 days sight, 90 days sight, etc. They can be clean, i.e. not supported by any documents, or can have attached whatever shipping documents are desired.

Obviously, if a company attaches a complete set of invoices, negotiable bills of lading, marine and war risk insurance certificates or policies for an adequate amount, and other documents required for the release of the goods in the country of destination, and these documents are endorsed where required by the seller, the collection controls and retains the ownership of the goods until by permission they are released or until the draft is paid.

When delivering a collection to a bank, the amount of the draft must be clearly expressed in words and figures, the name and address of the drawee must be clearly given, the revenue stamps attached, and the bank must clearly understand whether the collection is to go forward by ordinary mail or air mail. The bank must also be placed in a position to give appropriate instructions to its correspondent abroad and these instructions should cover points which are liable to come up when the draft gets to its destination. The following are examples of some of the instructions which might be given in varying circumstances:

Hold for arrival of goods.
Protest for non-acceptance.
Protest for non-payment.
Collect bank charges.
Waive bank charges if refused by drawee.
In case of need, refer to . . . . and advise immediately by mail (by cable).
Collect at selling rate for demand drafts on . . . . . . Remit proceeds by cable at our expense.
Allow drawee interest at . . .% per annum if paid before maturity.
In case of dishonor, store and insure goods at our expense, cabling promptly.

Other types of instructions will be needed in certain cases and these will vary with circumstances. The objective should be to see that the collecting bank abroad is not left in doubt as to the action which they should take in possible or likely eventualities.

It is possible for collections to be drawn in such a way that interest is to be collected from the drawee over and above the face amount of the draft and where this is required, it should be enfaced on the draft itself by means of an appropriate clause, such as:

> 'Payable with interest at the rate of . . .% from date of draft to estimated arrival of return remittance in . . . .'

or

> 'Payable at the collecting bank's selling rate for sight drafts on Canada plus interest at the rate of . . . % from date of draft to estimated date of arrival of return remittance in Canada.'

If remittance is required by cable, the clauses would be changed appropriately. The rate of interest inserted is usually that common in the country of destination.

In many cases, if desired, collections can be discounted with Canadian banks at the time of lodgment and, when expressed in foreign exchange, the proceeds sold to or deposited with the bank. This disposes of the exchange risk if the draft is paid promptly but creates an exchange risk if the draft is dishonored. The availability for discount of a collection payable abroad depends, of course, upon the currency in which it is drawn, the term of the draft, the documents which are attached, but to a greater extent on the financial standing of the drawer and the drawee.

RISKS OF FLUCTUATION IN EXCHANGE RATES

The value in terms of Canadian dollars of all foreign currencies is subject to exchange fluctuations even under Control conditions as no one, not even Governments, can guarantee that current rates of exchange will remain unchanged over any stated period. To some extent these risks can be eliminated both under Control and open market conditions, by means of forward contracts. Canadians buying and selling goods abroad can enter into forward contracts with their banks for reasonable periods ahead when they have a firm contract with a buyer or seller abroad, and when a forward contract is entered into to deliver or take delivery of a stated amount of foreign exchange, the exchange risk is eliminated. Such contracts must, however, be completed and for the amount contracted. It is not possible to obtain a forward contract while open price quotations are in circulation prior to acceptance.

LETTERS OF CREDIT

Letters of Credit are extremely useful documents in financing foreign trade and the financing of a very large proportion of world trade is handled by that method. They are most adaptable and can be made to fit the requirements of almost any movement of goods under most circumstances. They vary, therefore, from country to country, from commodity to commodity, and between one method of shipment and another. While contracts in themselves, they do not constitute or replace sales contracts between buyers and sellers, but facilitate the carrying out of the latter. In all cases they carry an obligation of the issuer—in these days usually a bank—but the extent of these obligations varies from one credit to the next, and of course are no better than the standing and reputation of the issuer. It cannot, therefore, be taken for granted that every letter of credit is uniform with every other or that they remove all liability from the beneficiary.

They are at times irrevocable and at others revocable, at times carry the obligation only of the bank abroad, and at times carry the obligation not only of the bank abroad but also of a bank in Canada. They can be opened in such a way that the seller receives payment in Canada without further recourse on him, though never remove the responsibility for the sales contract to be duly and properly fulfilled. On the other hand, they may serve only the purpose of providing prompt cash in Canada with certain rights of recourse in some circumstances.

Their establishment by a bank abroad at the request of the buyer usually involves him in some expense and in the use of his credit, thereby adding some expense to the cost of the goods, so that they cannot, in face of competition, be requested in connection with every sale. The possibility of asking for payment in the form of a letter of credit should not, however, be overlooked and, if it is considered desirable that a letter of credit should be obtained, it is advisable to be somewhat specific in describing the type of letter of credit expected.

When details are received of a letter of credit which has been opened, it is important that its terms be studied and found acceptable. If unacceptable, request for amendment should be made immediately to the buyer so that no difficulty or delay will take place when the time comes to use the letter of credit. It is important also that the terms of the letter of credit be adhered to accurately and thoroughly since all letters of credit have an expiry date, either fixed in advance or at the pleasure of the issuer, and if the drafts and documents, upon presentation to a bank in Canada, are found out of order, the credit may have expired before the documents can be amended or corrected.

Space does not permit of a full description of the types of letters of credit or of all the documents for which they may call and the manner in which they should be prepared. In general, however, these documents must describe the goods at least as well as described in the letter of credit and must be in such negotiable shape that they control fully the eventual delivery of the goods, as well as guard against loss or damage while in transit. They rarely call for drafts on the buyer but usually for drafts on a particular bank and one of their important functions is to provide access to the principal money markets of the world so that interest costs involved are on an international level.

PRICE QUOTATIONS—FOREIGN TRADE DEFINITIONS

The basic transaction in international trade is the contract of sale and hence the terms employed in price quotations are of primary significance. The importance of there being a 'meeting of minds' of seller and buyer as to the intention of the parties conveyed in such terms is readily recognized. In an effort to define in a uniform manner certain well known terms generally used in making price quotations, there has been developed in various countries a set of rules or definitions which have been adopted by certain trade organizations and others setting out in some detail the obligations of seller and buyer attaching to the particular terms. In the United States the National Foreign Trade Council Incorporated, the National Council of American Importers Incorporated, and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America on July 30, 1941, through a joint committee, approved of what are known as "Revised American Foreign Trade Definitions—1941". These follow in general, although not in detail, the International Rules for the Interpretation of Trade Terms—generally known as "Incoterms, 1936"—approved by majority vote of the Council meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce on June 26, 1936. It should be understood, however, that the use of such rules is optional and that the approval of the particular rules referred to by designated trade bodies does not lend to them the force of law. Nevertheless, where a price quotation in accordance with these definitions and a contract of sale is concluded with a statement that the price is subject to these definitions, it would have considerable force in determining what is understood by the parties to the contract in respect to such price quotation.

While specific reference has been made to the "Revised American Foreign Trade Definitions—1941" and to "Incoterms—1936", it is essential to bear in mind, as previously pointed out, that foreign trade definitions have been issued by organizations in various parts of the world and the courts of different countries have interpreted these definitions in different ways. To reduce the opportunities for misunderstanding to a minimum, therefore, it is fundamental that there be agreement between seller and buyer as to what is actually meant when a price quotation is made. A buyer in a foreign country who is familiar with definitions endorsed by an organization in the foreign country and the court decisions interpreting such definitions, on receiving a price quotation from a seller in Canada is constrained to construe it in the light of such definitions unless the quotation is clarified by a stipulation as to what definitions apply in making the price quotation.

The terms commonly used are "F.O.B." (Free on Board); "C.I.F." (Cost, Insurance, Freight); "F.A.S." (Free Along Side) and certain elaborations of these terms. There are, however, many other terms which are used, some of which are shown in the definitions previously mentioned, while others are found in particular trades only. Where definitions are not formally approved and adopted by trade organizations for general use, it is necessary that a seller and buyer should specify exactly what is understood in respect thereto, indicating the obligations of both parties so that there may be no misunderstanding. In respect to "C.I.F." contracts, it further should be pointed out that the International Law Association adopted certain rules relating thereto in 1928 which, as later modified in 1931, are known as the "Warsaw-Oxford Rules".

In view of the foregoing very brief explanation of the importance of a mutual understanding between seller and buyer respecting price quotations, it will be seen that such matters should be given careful consideration so that the contract will be clearly understood by both parties.

DEFINITIONS OF TECHNICAL ABBREVIATIONS USED IN FOREIGN TRADE AND EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

The following list includes some of the principal abbreviations used in ocean shipping, transportation, marine insurance, and foreign exchange, as well as a number referring to standards, gauges, threads, dimensions, electrical and engineering terms. It was compiled with the assistance of our members, marine insurance companies, banks and departments of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It is hoped it will be useful both to Canadian exporters and importers of Canadian products abroad.

EXPORT TRADE SERVICES AND POLICY OF THE CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

Practical Assistance to Exporters

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, with its expert Service Departments, is in a particuarly strong position to assist its members in developing Export Trade.

More than 2,200 firms in the membership of the Association are interested in export. Many hundreds of the Association's members are importers of materials and equipment to a lesser or greater degree. This helps to pay for exports. The Association assists members with their import problems.

Service Departments

Established over 80 years ago, the Association's growth has paralleled that of manufacturing industry and export trade in Canada and it has built up Service Departments with a background of experience and information extending over many years. Indeed, export trade is specifically mentioned as a prime object of the Association in its Constitution, which provides that "The objects of this Association shall be to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters, and to render such services and assistance to the members of the Association and to manufacturers and exporters generally, as the Association may deem advisable from time to time".

There are many complications connected with doing export business. Questions concerning the transportation of goods overseas, the tariffs and other trading restrictions of importing countries, marine insurance, trade practices, trade statistics, credit information, translations, invoicing requirements and a multitude of other incidentals constantly arise.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, through its Tariff, Transportation, Legislation, Industrial Relations, Commercial Intelligence, Insurance and Publishing Departments can be of great help in solving these problems. These Departments are managed by experts, who have had long experience in their respective fields and who, with their assistants, are able to render a comprehensive service to members, covering all phases of export business.

The Commercial Intelligence Department is the Department having particular charge of export trade matters. It operates under a Commercial Intelligence Committee composed of representatives of different industries across Canada who are engaged in export trade. Under the guidance of the Commercial Intelligence Committee, the Association advocates and presses the adoption of those policies which will further the export business of its members.

The London, England, office of the Association, i.e., The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain Inc., handles a variety of matters relating to Anglo-Canadian trade.

Facilities for Assisting Exporters

We give below some detailed information in regard to direct and indirect assistance which the Association gives to exporters:

Representation at International Conferences.

The Canadian Trade Index

The Association performs a particularly valuable service in the interests of Canadian export trade by compiling and publishing annually "The Canadian Trade Index", a volume of over 1000 pages, containing a complete list of all Canadian manufacturers with a carefully classified list of their products, together with much other useful information with respect to all phases of export trade. With the co-operation of the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, copies of "The Canadian Trade Index" are distributed to hundreds of importers in overseas countries through the offices of the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner Service.

Meetings and Conferences

The Association holds frequent meetings, large and small, to hear addresses on export trade, to entertain visitors from overseas, to discuss export problems and kindred matters and generally to promote the interests of Canadian exporters. At Annual General Meetings, largely attended Conferences on Export and International Trade are organized.

Canadian Export Trade Series

The Export Study Clubs, organized under the auspices of the Commercial Intelligence Committee of the Association, are studying various phases of problems connected with export trade. Basic data has been and is being prepared by members of the groups; these are being published in pamphlet form as the Canadian Export Trade Series and are issued to interested members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The pamphlets in this Series only include such information as members of the group thought would be essential in a first approach to the subject. No attempt has been made to suggest future trends or developments.

The following pamphlets have been issued in the Canadian Export Trade Series:

No. 1. United Kingdom
No. 2. Transportation Features of an Export Shipment
No. 3. Union of South Africa
No. 4. Pricing for Export
No. 5. Drawbacks of Duties and Taxes on Exports
No. 6. British Empire Preferential Tariff System
No. 7. Mexico
No. 8. Export Merchandising
No. 9. Australia
No. 10. Terms of Payment and Export Credits
No. 11. Marine Insurance
No. 12. Customs Aspects of Exporting to the United States.

Policy on Export Trade

In connection with export and international trade a continuing study has been made of controls of materials, and the international currency situation. The Association maintains close co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce, the Department of Finance, the Department of External Affairs, the Foreign Exchange Control Board and is in close touch with the Federation of British Industries, the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States, and the International Chamber of Commerce.

The Association stands for and advocates the greatest possible trade between nations. It is obvious that the number of people employed in Canada depends to a great extent on the volume of her export trade.

The Association believes that the extent of Canada's export trade depends to a great degree, upon the ingenuity and hard work of the many thousands of Canadian firms and individuals engaged in the export of foodstuffs, raw materials, manufactured goods, and services. Exporters must have all possible knowledge of the trade practices and requirements covering export shipments and it is for this reason that the Association has paid so much attention to its specialized departmental services which were begun so many years ago, and which have continuously expanded to keep abreast of the times.

In the increasingly complex modern world, however, government policy plays a growing part. Canadian Governments have always displayed a keen interest in the problems of exporters, and, wherever and whenever necessary, the Association has placed the views of exporters before the Government. In passing, it might be mentioned that commencing in 1901 the Association has made strong representations to the Government to establish and expand a Canadian Trade Commissioner Service. Down through the years the Association has co-operated particularly closely with the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Trade Commissioner Service.

Explanation of List

THE list beginning on the opposite page comprises the names and addresses, alphabetically arranged, of all firms appearing in the classified section of the Canadian Trade Index. In this list we have tried to give the users of the book some information that will be useful in getting into quick touch with the makers of any desired article.

No street addresses are given in Part III (the classified article section). These are recorded where necessary to complete the address in Part II (the alphabetical list).

We have not attempted to give, in this list, any full account of the products. These will all be found under separate headings in the classified section on pages 487 and following. Where the firm or company name does not indicate clearly the line of goods manufactured, some of the main articles produced, or the nature of the firm's business, are mentioned.

The address given is that of the main place of business in Canada, usually the head office, although it may be both factory and office address. The addresses given later, under "Factories," "Mills," or "Plants" are generally those of branch factories. Branch offices also are given.

For. Rep. or simply Rep. means foreign or other representative for export sales purposes.

The Cable addresses and codes will be found useful in initiating and transacting export business.

Names of new firms received too late for listing in the main body of the green section will be found under "Additions" at the end of this section.
